Ayrshires Destined To Be The Breed Of The Future

BY PAT PURCELL

HAGERSTOWN, MD — Hundreds of Ayrshire breeders from across the United States gathered this week in Hagerstown, Md., to honor this red and white breed of dairy cattle which has become known for its peak efficiency and high production of protein and butterfat coupled with excellent milk production.

Ayrshire is fast becoming the breed of the future with more and more emphasis being placed on high index numbers for butterfat and protein production, according to keynote speaker, Ron Buffington of Dublin, Ohio.

"The correlation is very, very strong between fat and protein production. If you pick a cow with 1,000 pounds of fat, most likely protein will be at 800 pounds. The high fat cow is good on protein, and that's what's going to be important in the future. It's what foreign markets want, too," said Buffington. "There will be a tremendous demand for those cows with high lifetime records and high index on fat and protein."

Top on the agenda for the meeting was promotion of the advantages of dairying with Ayrshires. Buffington said that only can be accomplished by T-E-A-M effort. Which stands for T-ogether E-

Crawford Countian Wins Northeastern U.S. Alfalfa Award

MEADVILLE (Crawford) — John Tautin of Conneautville recently received an award for being the outstanding alfalfa producer for the Northeastern Region of the United States. The award, sponsored by the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council Inc. of Davis, Calif., was presented during the 19th National Alfalfa Symposium last month.

Tautin has been a dairy farmer for more than 30 years in the Tho[illegible] Corners area. He milks 42 cows and relies heavily on his 50 acres of alfalfa. Tautin stated, "I could not without my alfalfa; it's the easiest and cheapest way to make milk." High-quality alfalfa is his major feed source for his cows.

Tautin usually takes four cuttings per year, and his alfalfa has a crude protein level average ranging from 21 percent to 26 per[illegible] total digestible nutrients (TDN) range from 65 percent to 70 percent. In 1985 and 1986, Tautin participated in the Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers' Program in which alfalfa yield was measured. His field produced 6.5 tons of hay per acre in 1986 and 7.8 tons in 1985. The county's typical yield per acre normally is four to five [illegible] per acre for alfalfa production.

Tautin's high-quality alfalfa haylage allows hiim to reduce his feed cost significantly. In addition, he saves fertilizer dollars by using

York Holstein Breeders Updated On BST

DELTA (York) — Imagine dairying on the brink of the 1990s without bulk tanks, without automatic milkers, without artificial insemination, DHIA testing or embryo transfer.

Yet all those technological advances were once new—and suspect—breakthroughs from then accepted practices of the dairy business, Penn State specialist Dr. Larry Muller reminded York Holstein members at their spring barn meeting April 5. Dr. Muller updated the York Holstein breeders on continuing research on BST, bovine somatotrophin, during the meeting hosted by the Ramsay Cooper family of Delta.

The highly controversial bovine somatotrophin is today's

Quality Reigns At Maryland State Holstein Show

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — The 19th annual Maryland State Holstein Show on April 8th was held on one of the prettiest spring days yet. It was not only a show where the quality of the animals was recognized, but also their production as well.

Judge Loren Elsass agreed to the quality of the animals presented along with the keen competition as eight of the 19 classes had well over 15 entries in each. Though show numbers were down a few animals over last year, a tot-

An early morning calm Tuesday provided an ideal time to spread lime in Lancaster County. This Amish farm along Horseshoe Road seems closer than real life because a 70mm-230mm telephoto lens compresses the picture components into a closer view.

FUTURES MARKET TREND... GRAIN AND LIVESTOCK

This market information provided by ACRES ACRES is a copyrighted market information service developed by the American Farm Bureau and available to Pennsylvania farmers on a daily basis through Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management Services For additional market comments and trading service contact PFA Commodity Futures Service (717) 761-2740

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures prices settled higher this afternoon and gained from 2-1/4 to 3-1/2 cents on buying tied to renewed dry weather concerns. Reports of slack subsoil moisture conditions fueled buying along with spillover strength from the nearby wheat pit. Some corn/wheat spreading was featured. The initial burst this morning was attributed to yesterday's bullish USDA supply/demand report which indicated a lower than expected carryout figure of 1.83 billion bushels. May closed 2-1/4 cents higher at $2.67-3/4 while December gainced 3-1/2 cents at $2.62-1/4.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures prices settled sharply higher, but near mid range for the day in an actively traded session. May settled 7 cents higher at $7.27-1/2 while November gained only 3-3/4 cents. Buying today was linked to strong technical factors coupled with a tight cash supply situation. Further strength was linked to ongoing port labor problems in Brazil and light farmer sales. Weakness toward the end of the session was attributed to spillover from a sell-off in oats, which made new lows for the move today.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures continued to gain momentum today and settled from 2 cents higher on the spot option to 6-3/4 cents higher on the July. Buying late in the session was attributed to rumors that the USSR was attempting to purchase old and new crop SRW wheat. Further support was linked to news that Ag Secreatry Yeutter was planning to tour drought-stressed areas in Kansas. Iraq and Turkey were rumored to be in the market which kept hopes alive for a brighter export outlook. July seuled today at $3.95-3/4 while the September posted a four dollar plus close at $4.02-1/4.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: More bad news for cattle today with settlements from 17 to 93 points lower on the feeders and a mixed close for live cattle. Selling

Wednesday, April 12, 1989

Trucklot buying interest was light to fair and generally best on wings and tight supplies of breast items. Cutlets were in light supply; however, demand was only fair at best. Whole breasts were generally no more than adequate and the marketplace was in anticipation of higher trending prices. Legs were fully adequate and slow in clearing, while leg quarters traded as low as 29 cents delivered in an effort to stimulate movement. Wings were adequate to barely adequate.

CASH GRAIN AND SOYBEAN PRICES HIGHER WEDNESDAY, SECOND CONSECUTIVE DAY OF SUBSTANTIAL GAIN IN WHEAT PRICES. AT LEAST TUESDAYS SUPPLY AND DEMAND REPORT INCREASED ACTIVITY ON THE BOARD. DROUGHT CONDITION IN LARGE PART OF HARD RED WINTER WHEAT BELT ALSO A FACTOR. CORN HOLDING IN EXCESS OF WHAT SOME TRADE MEMBERS EXPECTED BUT RECENT DELUGE OF EXPORT ORDERS MAY IMPROVE THE SITUATION. MOISTURE OVER MOST OF SOYBEAN PRODUCING AREAS AND SOUTH AMERICAN HARVEST LIMITED REBOUND IN SOYBEAN PRICES AFTER RECENT DECLINES. EXPORT ORDERS FOR ALL COMMODITIES VERY FLAT THIS WEEK.

UNITED STATES...PRECIPITATION SLOWED FIELD WORK IN THE CORN BELT, DELTA, AND SOUTHEAST. SOIL MOISTURE WAS MOSTLY SURPLUS TO ADEQUATE IN THE DELTA AND SOUTHEAST AND MOSTLY SHORT TO ADEQUATE IN THE GREAT PLAINS AND MOSTLY ADEQUATE IN THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST. DAYS SUITABLE FOR FIELDWORK AVERAGED 2-3 IN THE DELTA, SOUTHEAST, AND CORN BELT AND 4-5 IN THE GREAT PLAINS AND THE WEST. WESTERN USSR...COOLER WEATHER PREVAILS IN THE NORTH WHILE MILD CONDITIONS IN THE SOUTH CONTINUE TO PROMPT EARLY GROWTH. WIDESPREAD VARIABLE PRECIPITATION COVERS THE REGION. EASTERN ASIA...HEAVY RAIN AND POSSIBLE FLOODING COVER SECTIONS OF THE SOUTHEASTERN CHINA AND TAIWAN.

CALF-tel HUTCHES
Keep Calves Healthy

Calf-tel™ Deluxe models have an access door, two 10-qt. pails inside and a bottle holder, for fast feeding without spilling.

You can stop worrying about your calves' health when the weather changes with Calf-tel™ Comfort Hutches. No other hutch provides a draft-free environment without big swings in temperature as well as Calf-tel™.

The hutch's thermomolded, opaque material eliminates the "greenhouse effect," which can cause intolerable heat on hot days, and moisture problems during cold weather.

Ridge top vents at front and back allow fresh air to move through the hutch to remove excess moisture in winter. Warm climate models have a fully open front, and a rear vent door, to keep calves comfortable.

Calves stay cleaner and dryer thanks to the hutch's 86" length and bigger sleeping area. Plus, the inside feed station prevents spoilage.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

APRIL 17-23, 1989

No frost after the mulberry tree leafs.

Daylight savings was first introduced, and defeated, on April 17, 1917 by N Y Sen William Calder It later passed, and went into effect in 1918 Ben Franklin died, April 17, 1790, 20,000 people attended the burial service in Philadelphia Average length of days for the week 13 hours 35 minutes Diligence is the mother of good luck - B Franklin

Ask the Old Farmer: Have you heard that Rhode Islanders who ate stone-ground cornmeal lived, on the average, to be over 87 years old? J J, R I.

So? If they hadn't swallowed a pint or two of gravel every month, along with their johnny-cakes, they might have been a hundred!

Home Hints: Half fill one muffin cup with water to prevent other muffins in the same tin from scorching

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Clearing and mild at first, then sun followed by light rain, the week ends seasonably Here comes a warm spell, clear as a bell

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cloudy and cold, then sprinkles, clear and mild, mid-week, but more showers to end this seven day span

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Sprinkles and cool weather almost all week, then clearing and very warm for final good news

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Sunny and pleasant before a mid-week cold wave, a rainstorm, then clearing and warm

OPINION

Love Cribs

To equate modern livestock farming practices with laboratory research projects is unfair. Vivid media photo segments that show test animals receiving shots with huge hypodermic needles should not be shown in association with, for example, modern veal production facilities. The emotional quotient is too great and not merited.

We may not be in a position to know when animals are needed in medical research projects to protect human life and when they are not needed because the experiment has no redeeming value. But we do know that the objective of modern livestock and dairy production facilities is to house the animals in as much comfort as is practical.

Admittedly, some farmers have not adopted the latest guidelines for proper space and facilities for their animals. And we are appalled at the situations where farmers neglect their animals or mismanage their operations so that their animals are hurt. For example, the farmer who walked away from his operation and allowed his animals to starve. Or where neck chains were not enlarged as the animal grew and the chains became embedded in the animal's flesh. To us, these kinds of situations are irresponsible, nauseating and unthinkable. And the persons responsible deserve the greatest punishment the law allows.

But the good farmers have become the victims of public relations campaigns that use emotional words to replace more common farm terms.

Some of these words and their farm meanings are as follows:

"Anemic meat" for "white meat."

"Tear a little calf away from its mother" for "wean the calf."

"Confinement boxes" for "comfort stalls."

"Animal exploitation" for "livestock husbandry."

"Tethered" for "tied."

"Happiness" for "contentment."

"Chop them up in little pieces and eat them" for "dress or butcher."

"Factory farms" for "homesteads."

The veal industry has taken the blunt of the first assault by people who want to change the way farm animals are cared for. Unfortunately, some of the claims for animal rights are not true. For example, picketers at a Harrisburg restaurant recently protested milk-fed veal on the menu. This group told news reporters that veal producers keep their animals in total darkness 22 hours a day.

But in fact, modern special-fed veal producers understand that it is simply an "old wives' tale" that calves must be reared in the darkness to produce light pink meat. The American Veterinary Medical Association helps to clarify this misperception in their booklet entitled "Guide for Veal Calf Care and Production."

We quote: "Throughout the hours of daylight the level of indoor lighting, natural or artificial, should be such that all housed cattle can be seen clearly. In addition, adequate lighting should be available for satisfactory inspection at any time. Contrary to information circulated to the general public, it is recommended calves be raised in well lighted areas."

Actually, today's veal houses employ artificial lighting or receive natural light through skylights and windows.

And since the good farmer rises in the middle of the city folks' night to give his babies their formula; and since this farmer provides a warm, cozy home for his babies in the middle of the winter; and since he keeps his babies inside protected from wild dogs in summer; and since he diciplines his babies so they don't turn around and eat their bedding that has been soiled with peewee; and since he calls the doctor to come as soon as one of his babies runs a fever or is otherwise sick; and since he fondles his babies' ears while they drink their formula; and since he does all this from morning until night, day in and day out, until his babies are grown, we think the good farmer could rightfully call himself or herself a parent.

Fortunately, when farmers let the true facts be known about how they care for their animals, the general public responds favorably. This happened in Massachusetts last fall, when farmers took legislators to their farms in response to the animal rights referendum that was later defeated. And it happened again in Maryland when veal producers showed home videos of their

NOW IS THE TIME

To Plant Asparagus

Asparagus is a popular perennial vegetable that many home gardeners grow.

* Located asparagus at the side of the garden since it is a perennial and will not interfere with other garden operations.

* Select an area of the garden that has deep, loose and friable soil.

* Incorporate adequate amounts of organic matter before planting.

* Avoid soils that are heavy, or stony since they will tend to produce a higher proportion of crooked spears.

* The best variety to plant in Pennsylvania is Rutger Hybrids.

* Plant one-year old crowns any time throughout April.

* A good method is to dig a trench eight-inches deep and set the crowns at the bottom.

* Space rows four or five feet apart and the crowns in the row 18 inches apart.

* Cover crowns with about two inches of soil then gradually through the first season cover the trench to the full eight-inch depth.

* It will be two years before you can cut spears.

* By allowing the plants to become well-established during the first two seasons, the plants will produce 15 to 20 ears once harvest begins.

* Harvest will be over a six to eight week period when they come into production.

* Maintain asparagus patch by keeping the beds weed free and fertilizing early in the spring each year with two to three pounds of a complete garden fertilizer per 100 square feet.

* Work fertilizer into the soil.

* After harvest, adding one to two pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer per 100 square feet will insure healthy summer growth.

To Consider New Sheep Practices

Technological advances in management practices have contributed to the flexibility of the commercial sheep enterprise. Two promising practices allow part-time shepherds the opportunity to economically handle larger commercial units. Electrical fencing systems have replaced the traditional woven wire on most sheep farms. Previously, sheep fencing was an expensive and labor intensive project, mainly thought of as a permanent investment. Modern electrical systems usually require less than half the expense and can be used as portable or temporary installations. This allows the use of much more pasture rotation and aftermath harvest.

There has been a great effort over the past 10 years to select ewe flocks for out-of-season, short interval lambing traits. The goal for many commercial ewe flocks today is to lamb every eight months and produce two marketable lambs per year, plus their own replacements. This trait, when developed in a flock, greatly increases the total cash flow of the operation and allows more effective use of labor and facilities.

To Prepare For Ryelage Harvest

Winter grains are growing rapidly and before we know it ryelage harvesting time will be upon us. When that time comes, you want to be ready to roll with the harvester because you have so few days in which to harvest the crop at the precise time for top quality feed. If you miss these few days due to inclement weather or poor timing, quality declines very, very rapidly! Line up your harvester now, get the silo ready and as the harvest date approaches, keep a close watch on the fields and be ready to roll at a moments notice when the weather breaks.

To Stay Off Wet Ground

Don't let spring fever get the better of your good judgement. As you yearn to get into fields and gardens, remember what you are trying to accomplish. You want seeds to germinate rapidly and seedlings to emerge quickly. The longer it takes for this to happen the greater the opportunity is for disease and insects to attack, weaken or destroy the seed and planting. Follow weather predictions closely and delay planting until soil moisture and temperature conditions are favorable for good germination, and until the risk of frost injury has passed. To prevent soil compaction and surface crusting don't work soils when they are too wet.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

MAKING IT
April 16, 1989

Background Scripture:
Philippians 3; I Timothy 1:1-2, 18-:20; 2:1-6.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 34:1-8.

In the business world, we say a person "has it made" when they rise to a top position that can command an extraordinary style of living. In athletics, we figure an athlete has "made it" when he or she is courted by the pros. In just about every field of human endeavor there are accepted canons of success.

But what about spiritual matters—how do we "make it" there? In the ministry, it is commonly accepted that being elected a Bishop or Senior Minister of one of the largest, most prestigious congregations is "making it" to the top. Among the laity, it might be serving as Chair-person of the Board or lay delegate to the church judicatory. Among still others, it might be a matter of belonging to the "right church," subscribing to the "right beliefs" or getting saved in the "right way."

REASONS FOR CONFIDENCE

In Jesus' and Paul's days, many people thought that the only way to "make it" with God was to be a Pharisee and that meant living strictly by the religious laws of Israel. Although this was a lot to live up to, if a person was truly diligent (or perhaps fanatical), it could bring a tremendous amount of satisfaction—even pride.

If that's what it took to "make it," Paul reminded the Philippians that "If any other man thinks he has reason for confidence in the flesh, I have more..." (3:4). What could be more impressive than Paul's religious pedigree?

But Paul didn't believe that he had "made it." In fact, "...whatever gain I had, I counted as loss for the sake of Christ..." (3:7). "Making it" that way, said Paul was an illusion, for one cannot "make it" that way: "...not having a righteousness of my own, based on law..." (3:9). The righteousness we accumulate with our religious pedigrees, no matter how impressive it may seem, just doesn't, cannot add-up to what is the real "prize" of our spiritual quest — "the righteousness from God that depends on faith."

PRESSING ON

In a sense, we don't "make it" with God, because that implies that we have achieved the prize by our own merit or efforts. Instead, to be a true disciple of Jesus Christ means that we are dependent, not upon what we have achieved, but are constantly in the process of growing towards a goal that is always beyond our reach. "Not that I have already obtained this or am already perfect," says Paul, "but I press on to make it my own...I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus" (3:12,14).

So, "making it" as a follower of Christ means that in this life we do not arrive, for we are always pressing on.

Agway introduces

NEW Gro:Pak™ With Bovatec®

Improve the rate of weight gain by 10-13% in your replacement heifers with Agway Gro:Pak™ with Bovatec®. No body weight restriction means you can feed calves almost from birth and help them conceive and calve at younger ages by consistently improving growth rate. And getting heifers into the production cycle sooner means more dollars to your bottom line!

Agway Gro:Pak™ with Bovatec® is a pelleted premix safe for cattle of all weights. It can be top dressed on silage or grain, blended in a total mixed ration (TMR), or blended with grains. Good palatability means calves or heifers won't back-off feed. And Bovatec is approved for control of coccidiosis in cattle up to 800 lbs. of body weight. That means less death loss and growth setback in your heifers.

Farm Essentials.

Cows. Crops. And a Scavenger® spreader. The three essentials for higher productivity and a more successful farm operation.

Manure is money.
According to ag experts at the University of Missouri, the average dairy cow produces 70 pounds of manure every day—up to 13 tons a year. Worth about $5.00/ton, that equates to $65.00 per cow a year. If you own a 60-head herd that's almost $4,000 of free fertilizer. And in today's farm environment that adds up to big savings.

Scavenger—good to your crops, good to you.
To get the most from your manure you need a spreader to efficiently manage manure. A spreader that works with you. A spreader designed and built for today's farming. You need a Scavenger.

Scavenger loads quickly and spreads fast. And thanks to advanced engineering, Scavenger spreads all kinds of manure—liquid, semi-solid, pen pack (even frozen)—all year 'round. But more importantly, Scavenger's patented moveable square-auger and Variflo discharge combine to let you choose your optimum rate of application—from top dressing to heavy springtime spreading. You get the kind of spreads your crops need—nice and even, without damaging "hotspots". With Scavenger, your crops receive the essential nutrients to produce better yields.

See Scavenger for yourself.
Don't be misled by claims of other manufacturer's spreaders that say they do it all. See Scavenger for yourself and compare actual capabilities. We think you'll find your choice obvious—you'll choose Scavenger®.

For a firsthand look at Scavenger, see your local Hedlund/Martin dealer. Or for more information write: Hedlund/Martin, Inc., A Gehl Company, 741 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067. Telephone: 717-933-4151

Looking for an alternate to typical grains as a cash crop?

Buckwheat could be your answer!

Unlike other small grain crops that require increasingly costly inputs and are subject to unstable prices depending on crop size, gov't. programs and fluctuating export markets — buckwheat can be grown under contract to us with both the price and the market guaranteed before you plant. Consequently more and more growers in this area are including substantial buckwheat acreage in their '89 planting schedule.

There are definite advantages:

- ☑ Guaranteed Market
- ☑ Higher price - $9.15 CWT.
- ☑ Growing Buckwheat offers savings in labor, fuel and other inputs since it requires little or no fertilizer, no herbicides or insecticides, it improves the soil and can be planted up to July 10.

* We guarantee to buy the crop this Fall at this price from our Contract Growers. But you need a Contract.

Don't delay. Contact us right away before acreage requirements for this year are filled.

Now There's A Farmer In Your Area Who Can Make Any Business Loan The Bank Can.

Since 1917, farmers have taken kindly to Farm Credit because we're owned and controlled by people who really understand your business.

Farmers. Just like yourself. Thing was, we didn't exactly lay out a Sunday dinner spread of loans. Our menu was limited, and we knew it.

So recently we overhauled our lending system. We now offer competitive rates and options for loans we never could offer before.

Adjustable rate mortgages.
Revolving lines of credit.
Variable and fixed rate loans.

Terms of 30 days to 30 years. There's even a variety of services including insurance plans.

Some things do remain the same, however. The Farm Credit loan officer you talk to still makes most of the decisions.

And chances are he can do it faster than most bankers can say "bureaucracy."

So think about this for a moment. Who would you rather deal with for your next loan? A banker who merely wants your business. Or a farmer who knows it.

FARM CREDITSM
Nobody knows the field better.

Quality Reigns At Maryland

al of 232 animals was shown with 128 in the junior show. Judge Elsass is a national known judge and operates the Quiet Cove Holsteins Farm at Wapakoneta, Ohio.

Pintail Point Farm, owned by Louis Schaeffer near Queenstown, dominated the heifer classes in the open show. Their strong senior yearling and intermediate senior yearling were a tough pair to beat. They placed easily as junior champion and reserve junior champion respectively.

Though it was a close placing, Insinga Inspiration Chocolate had more frame and size which placed her on top, pointed out Elsass. She also had the advantage of her age, he said. Chocolate is a Hanoverhill Inspiration-RC daughter out of Insinga Triple Threat Cocoa bred by Insinga Holsteins.

Matthew Iager swept the placing in the remaining three classes as he placed first in the senior heifer calf and summer yearling classes and second in the junior yearling heifer class. His senior heifer calf topped the largest class of the day which had 44 entries.

Md-Maple-Lawn Dixiecrat Queen also earned the junior champion of the junior show. Md-Maple Lawn Farm also captured the first place ribbon for the junior best three females class. Tommy Remsburg placed on top in the junior yearling class.

The cow classes became a competition between Savage-Leigh Farm from Knoxville and Hills-Hope Holsteins from Emmitsburg. They both placed animals in the top three in five classes out of the nine. When the final placings were announced, Savage-Leigh E Star Grace, the Reserve All-American Aged Cow in 1987, took all the honors. She was the 1st place aged cow, senior champion and grand champion of the show.

Judge Elsass described her as a cow with great length of body, strength over the top line and displaying a great udder for a cow her age. She was also the best bred and owned animal in her class as well as designated best udder.

Grace is a Thonyma East Star-Twin daughter out of Savage-Leigh Kate Grace. She also took home the Maryland best bred and owned trophy.

The Savage-Leigh Farm exhibitors, Wayne and Cindee Savage, placed on top in the senior best three females class as well. Their son, Christopher, took home the first place ribbon in the dry 4-year-old cow class. Savage-Leigh RORAE was also the reserve grand champion of the junior show.

The reserve junior and reserve grand champion rosettes went to the first place 5-year-old from Hills-Hope Holsteins. Cowlick Tony Ticky was designated best udder of her class as well. David and Sally Hill received the premier exhibitor banner for Hills-Hope Holsteins. Their 2-year-old cow was first in her class along with being best bred and owned and best uddered cows of her class.

Md-Maple-Lawn Sexation Pinky is owned by Michael Iager and was the All-Maryland Aged Cow for 1988, was the first place Dry Aged Cow. She was also the top production winner in her class with 24,955 lbs. of fat corrected milk.

The 100,000-pound-cow class went to the 1988 All-Maryland 100,000-pound-cow, Coldspring Ira Kewpie. Her total performance record for fat corrected milk was 32,599 lbs. She was also second in the aged-cow class and took home the show production award. Kewpie was sired by Coldsprings Ira from Coldsprings Wiz Isabel-Oc. Coldsprings Farm, owned by Marlin and Kathy Hoff from New Windsor, were the recipients of this year's premier breeder banner. In the last five years they have won the premier breeder and the premier exhibitor banners four times each.

Dam and daughter winners were Brian Galbreath and Robert Smith representing My Ladys Manor Farm. Regina Williams, Alt. Maryland Dairy Princess made the presentation.

FARM MANAGEMENT

What is Your Farm's Future?

By Alan W. Strock
Farm Management Agent
For
Chester & Lancaster Counties

What is your farming future?

Should you sell your farm for "big bucks"?

These are difficult questions facing many farmers in today's strange economic times. Many farmers, especially in Southeastern and Southcentral Pennsylvania are asking themselves these serious and life-changing questions.

Residents of Chester and Lancaster counties are struggling with these questions, too, as reflected by the attendance of 270 farmers and non-farmers at two meetings sponsored by the Cooperative Extension which dealt with the future of farming in these two counties.

Love For Farm Or Farming?

A farmer in this situation must ask, 'Where is my deepest love?' Is it for my family roots and present farm location, or for my love of farming?

The answer to this basic question will go a long way in helping the farmer decide whether to sell the farm and relocate or stay and be creative in the way he deals with farming in, or next to, suburbia.

In addition, he will also have to ask himself important questions about estate planning, present and future zoning plans and regulations, governmental regulatory agency interferences, labor shortages, directly marketing one's farm product to consumers, and non-farm income-producing alternatives.

This process, to some farmers, may seem like a form of Chinese water torture where the victim is made immobile while water drips slowly on his forehead. But unlike water torture this question-and-answer session is of great benefit to the farmer.

Your estate's value will determine your future. First, get your farm appraised and second, have an accurate balance sheet prepared. The balance sheet will enable you to make informed decisions whether it is possible or even feasible to keep the farm in the family.

Farmland use evaluation, living trusts, regular trusts, and gifting programs are all useful tools in transferring the estate to the next generation or even to the grandchildren. Zoning must also be considered before you make your decision. When the farm can be sold for ten to twenty times its agricultural value it makes little, if any, economic and farm management sense to keep the farm and struggle along with high real estate taxes, low profitability, traffic problems, neighbor complaints, labor shortages and even possibly extensive loan payments.

Development, Regulations and Labor Shortage

It is critically important that you take time to visit with your local planning commission and seek their guidance and forecast for land use in your area. It would also be time well spent talking to your county planning commission officials and questioning them about county population shifts and increases, planned housing developments and road improvements and additions, and related subjects.

Governmental regulations that will impact the farmer are sure to increase instead of decrease in the future, especially in wake of the alar chemical and Chilean fruit scares. The government is sure to further tie farmers' hands in the area of insecticide and pesticide usage, manure disposal (Chesapeake Bay), animal safety and health (animal rights groups), air and water quality, and labor management. If these issues scare you it may be time to relocate to a less populated area, where there may be fewer regulations.

As long as the general economy and/or your local economy stays strong, finding sufficient labor for the farm operation will continue to get more difficult. Most people are three or four generations removed from farming now, and most don't want to get their hands dirty nor work the long hours and weekends involved in farming.

Some farmers are presently, and many others will soon be, paying non-farm wages to attract competent employees. In some cases a key to being profitable and "staying put" will be getting some of the new money brought into your local area by the new residents into your pockets through direct marketing.

You may want to become retailers and earn the middle man's profit margin (and headaches) by marketing your milk, meat, poultry, fruit, vegetables, eggs, or other commodity. It will take a unique, inventive, resilient family that loves to meet and work with people to directly market their product to the public.

Another way to get some of the new money moving into your area, and secure your financial future, may be to develop a non-farm business such as bed and breakfast, saw sharpening, woodworking, garage, wood cutting, or the like.

Also, many full-time farmers are taking non-farm employment and becoming part-time farmers to retain the farm. As new people move into the area, a whole host of new services will be needed and wanted. As you are deciding your farm's future be sure to look at the economic ramifications of the decision.

Remember the big advantage we have in the northeast is our closeness to our markets. If cooperative extension can help, be sure to contact your local Cooperative Extension office. Penn State is an equal opportunity financial institution.

Pork Council Urges "Reasonable Pricing" On Pork By Retailers

DES MOINES, IA. — The National Pork Producers Council (NPPC), the organization that represents a majority of America's pork producers, issued an urgent call today to the nation's food retailers. It urged them to be reasonable about their profit margins on fresh pork products or run the risk of causing irreparable damage to farmers' ability to continue producing pork.

In a letter to major food retailers and the association that represents them, the Food Marketing Institute, Orville K. Sweet, executive vice president of NPPC, said current retail pork prices around the country do not reflect the price producers are getting for their hogs. Last week pork producers were receiving approximately $37.50 per hundredweight for their best hogs. "That means the average producer was losing about $17 on every hog sold," said Sweet. Pork producers are as close to a crisis point as they have been in the last 10 years. Severe liquidation of hog herds will occur if producers don't start getting a fair return on their investment," the NPPC official said.

The pork producer's share of the consumer dollar spent on pork was 36.5 percent in the first two months of 1989, near a record low. "An excellent opportunity currently exists for food retailers to offer consumers outstanding sale prices on fresh pork," Sweet said, "and the Pork Council is prepared to cooperate financially with retailers to take advantage of that opportunity."

"We certainly are not asking retailers to take a loss on the pork they sell. They have helped us tremendously during the last couple of years in increasing consumer demand for pork. Pork producers appreciate that, but currently, fresh pork is carrying an unfair share of the cost in keeping the average retail meat case profitable," the Council official said.

Sweet said he will recommend to the NPPC Executive Committee and the National Pork Board that some of the funds now used to promote consumer demand for pork be transferred to the development of tracking studies to better measure the spread between live hog prices and wholesale and retail pork prices.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is also being requested to increase the amount of pork it purchases for various government feeding programs in order to assist pork producers through their present difficulties.

Penn State To Hold 4-H Ambassador Conference

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre) — The first annual Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference, an integral part of the newly formed Ambassador Program, will be held at University Park, June 26 through 28.

According to Nancy M. Kadwill, Penn State extension agent in Montgomery County and chair of the 4-H Ambassador Development Committee, the conference is designed to build speaking and public relations skills and to interest youth in community leadership roles. Workshops on interviewing techniques, communications and public relations will help participants develop the confidence to meet with and speak to the public. The participants will then use these skills to interest and encourage youth and adults to get involved in 4-H.

Additionally, leadership will be encouraged through involvement in the 4-H Ambassador Team. This team will be formed during the conference to represent 4-H at statewide events.

4-H has invited William Asbury, Penn State vice president of student services, to be the featured speaker at Monday's opening dinner. Asbury supported the Ambassador Program with keynote addresses when the program was part of Penn State 4-H Week. Penn State student services and the Lion Ambassadors also have offered their support to 4-H for the development of conference workshops and activities.

Conference participants will be chosen independently by each county. All 15- to 18-year-old 4-H members interested in leadership are eligible, especially those with public-speaking experience. A minimum of 50 and maximum of 100 delegates will be chosen.

'The conference cost of each participant is $100, some of which may be funded by scholarship support. This fee covers lodging, meals, insurance and other conference costs.

First FFA Commodity Marketing Simulation Sponsored

WEST BEND, WISC. — In the first event of its kind, The National FFA Foundation is hosting a simulated commodity marketing program, which began in January, 1989. The three-month event is sponsored by The Stewart-Peterson Advisory Group, farm marketing consultants in West Bend.

The commodity program is providing high school students with hands-on experience in commodities marketing, and is designed to teach prospective agribusiness men and women how to manage risk and maximize profits. It is seen by both Stewart-Peterson and the FFA as an excellent vehicle to prepare future farmers and commodities advisors for an increasingly business-oriented market.

The initial pilot program is being conducted in the state of Minnesota, but is expected to include chapters from across the nation within the next five to six years. The program is designed to teach "real-life" situations in a classroom atmosphere.

Specifically, the local advisor from the participating school has formed up to three teams consisting of three to six students. By calling market actions into an 800 number, each team is marketing 25,000 bushels of corn and 550 hogs from a model farm. The competition was completed last month. Each team can trade as it wishes without exceeding the commodity produced on the model farm. As in a normal situation, fees are assessed to each transaction, and a monthly statement is provided to each team. The advisor assists the teams with pertinent information and acts as a liaison to the FFA and Stewart-Peterson.

Upon completion of the simulation, each team will be judged by Stewart-Peterson and the FFA on marketing methodology based on a marketing journal and monetary success. Teams receiving the highest combined score will be selected as winners. Scholarships will be provided to members of the winning team by Stewart-Peterson.

According to Scott W. Stewart, president of the Stewart-Peterson Advisory Group, a simulated program such as this is an idea whose time has come.

Young Adults Returning To Empty Nest

SCRANTON (Lackawanna) — Recent studies have shown that more young adults are living with their parents now than they did a few years ago. In 1984, 37 percent of persons 18 to 20 years of age, over eighteen million young people, lived at home. The percentage drops sharply by age, from 80 percent of 18 and 19 year olds to 14 percent of 25 to 29 year olds.

Young adults live with their parents for many reasons: to continue their education, to recover from an illness or injury, to save money toward a particular goal, for companionship and/or mutual help, or to get on their feet again after a marriage breakup or job loss. In some families, grandchildren are also part of the newly formed household.

When adults of two generations live together, misunderstandings can be avoided if they communicate what they expect of one another at the beginning of the jointure. Most people like a certain amount of structure in their lives. When new members enter a household, it is important to establish new "rules" by which the group will live.

Before you settle in together, make time for a planning meeting. Work out a mutually agreeable plan for living together under the same roof. Be sure to involve all family members who live in the household.

Some points to consider for discussion in your planning meeting are:

* Departure date- Set a target date for when the young adult expects to move out.

* Financial arrangements- Discuss how household expenses will be shared. Most authorities suggest that it is best for younger adults to make some monetary contribution to the household.

* Household responsibilities - Discuss who will prepare meals, wash clothes, mow the yard, etc. met?

* Care of grandchildren- Discuss arrangements for child care and how discipline will be handled. Living together as mature adults is now always easy. Here are some suggestions to keep in mind to help foster harmony in the home.

1. Recognize that a joint household requires effort by each person to make it work. The lives of each member will continue to change, so be prepared to revise expectations and responsibilities accordingly.

2. Be open about discussing what bothers you. Work out differences so there is something positive in the outcome for both generations.

3. Don't be afraid of occasional arguments. They are part of life and often help to clear the air.

4. Treat each other as a good friend. This includes courtesy and respect for individual tastes and opinions.

5. Use humor to brighten your life and relieve tension.

6. Avoid prying about girlfriends, boyfriends, or other personal business. Sharing information about such matters should be voluntary.

7. Make requests of parents, sons, and daughters - not demands. Demands threaten good feelings about yourself and others.

8. Communicate calmly about work you think needs to be done. Try not to be a nag. Discuss expectations about the quality of the work.

9. Be as flexible as possible, without giving up your own rights and values. Avoid making mountains out of molehills.

10. Show application for help given by others. It may be what you agreed on, but everyone likes to be appreciated.

11. Be businesslike in dealings associated with your joint living arrangement. If you let some things slide now, there may be double trouble down the line.

12. Do not complain to friends or relatives about other adults in the household. Take your concerns to each other. If problems persist, perhaps a discussion about separate living arrangements is needed.

Junior and reserve junior champion of the 4-H Maryland State Holstein show went to Shane Schwartzbeck with reserve champion, Peach and Plenty Strbk Deligh and Matthew lager (right) with Md-Maple Dixiecrat Queen junior champion.

liam Smith and Crystal Smith all placed on the top in the remaining classes. The 4-year-old cow from Crystal Smith, OCS Dairy Phils Candy, not only took first in the open show in her class, but also in the junior show which enabled her to capture the grand champion trophy as well.

The Iager family from Fulton, showed the strength and depth of their herd in the junior show as they placed in the top three in five out of the six classes. Matthew took the first place ribbons in three of the heifer classes, senior heifer calf, summer and junior yearling.

His senior heifer calf, Md-Maple-Lawn Dixiecrat Queen, was the junior champion female competing in the largest class of the day with 28 animals. She is an Ocean-View Dixiecrat daughter out of Md-Maple-Lawn Creek Queen. Matthew's brother, Mark, placed second in the intermediate heifer calf and their cousin, Tanya, placed second in the senior yearling class.

Shane Schwartzbeck took the reserve junior champion rosette with his senior yearling, Peace & Plenty Strbk Delight. The remaining two first place winners were Jenell Rinehart and Donna Johnson.

The Smith family from Jefferson, and the Savage family from Knoxville, were the top winners in the cow classes as their animals placed in the top three in five classes out of eight. OCS Dairy Phils Candy, owned by Crystal Smith, captured the grand champion title of the show as well as senior champion. Her first place 4-year-old is a OCS Dairy Elevation Val daughter out of Ken-Ric Hannibal Cindy-ET.

The Junior All-American and the All-Maryland 3-year-old of 1988, took the reserve senior and reserve grand champion of the show. Christopher Savage's first place dry 4-year-old, Savage-Leigh RORAE Chrissy, just couldn't compete with the milking 4-year-old in the bloom of her lactation, said Elsass. Chrissy was also the best bred and owned animal of the show. His sister, Amy, had the first place 3-year-old cow.

Jack Kahler had two first place animals with his senior 2-year-old and his aged cow. Shannon Harrison, David Walker and Bucky Ehrhardt took home the other first place ribbons.

RCMA Issues Credit To Handlers For April Milk

BATAVIA, NY — The Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) will issue a credit of $.20 per hundredweight, or $1.74 per gallon, on all RCMA member milk used by approximately 100 fluid milk bottlers in the 11 Northeastern states. This credit will be applied against the recently announced $.95 per hundredweight price to milk dealers who buy RCMA-member milk in April. The $.20 credit was established on April 7 by the nearly 60 RCMA directors who gathered in Syracuse, N.Y., to conduct the business of their 22,000-member cooperative.

According to Ed Anna, RCMA executive director and general manager, the Board of Directors still feels that $.95 per hundredweight is a fair price to establish for RCMA members' milk. "Unfortunately for dairy farmers, the metropolitan New York/New Jersey's largest milk dealers lead the way, and they were joined by others, in rejecting the $.20 per hundredweight increase," said Anna. "These milk bottlers stated that market conditions did not allow them to collect the $1.74 per gallon at this time."

Anna indicated that such a statement by processors is difficult for dairymen to accept in light of the 11.2 cents per gallon seasonal price reductions these processors have experienced in the last 60 days.

Additional farmer frustration arises when dealers claim they pass along these reductions to their store customers while consumers still don't see lower prices. "People who are downstream from the farm, namely milk processors and retailers, do not understand the stresses and difficulties of the average dairy farmer; spring planting costs, high feed costs, lack of skilled help and decreasing milk prices make the dairy industry more and more vulnerable without any additional income to offset these losses," said Anna. Most dairy farmers agree with Anna that consumers want more of the money they spend on milk to go back to farmers, thus enhancing the future of their food supply.

RCMA president and farmer, Bill Zuber, explained that as a result of the $.20 per hundredweight credit to milk processors, RCMA members will continue to receive a premium on April milk comparable to the approximate $.28 per hundredweight that they have been receiving in recent months.

Excitement over new programs being offered to Ayrshire members pervaded the convention. Headlining some of the new offerings is the Young Sire Program and the Type Traits Approval program. Equally as important is the Ayrshire Cow Connection being established for the first time this year. The ACC is where the Ayrshire buyer and seller will meet, according to Director Doug Evans from New York.

Mike Creek has been hired as the sales coordinator. Creek is with the Palmyra Farm owned by Ralph Shank and son, Ralph Shank Jr. of Hagerstown. The ACC is prepared to handle private treaties and dispersal sales. According to Evans, the ACC is looking into invitational sales on a national or by state basis and also into special group sales. Contracts and treaties are drawn up and ready for members' use.

"There are a lot of good cattle out there for sale, and there are a lot of buyers out there who want them," said Evans. "We believe that this is one step closer to laying the groundwork for the 1990s."

The next step in preparation for the future is embryo transplant, according to Evans. This was seconded by Buffington, the key speaker at the awards luncheon. "There is no better way to take advantage of the great genetic potential available which is virtually untapped," said Evans. "We are hoping ACC can handle this for you also." Evans said that members have shown an interest in this, but fear the costs may be too high and that they won't be able to sell the embryos or ET calves.

"We look forward to sale of frozen embryos at the 1992 meeting which will be held in New York," said Evans. "We strongly believe this is an area of untapped potential for the 1990s."

A new Sire Summary Blue Book will be coming out soon with more useful information for members and according to Art Gaddis, director from Wisconsin, it will also be easier to read. In addition, a computer mating service is in the making and will be available in the very near future.

Starting in 1989 any junior member wishing to enter the record book competition at the national level can now bypass the state level, according to Ralph Shank Jr. of Hagerstown. Juniors may send their record books directly to the national contest. Shank said the change was made to encourage more juniors to compete and to develop more interest in the national contest.

Also new for juniors is the establishment of a scholarship fund. According to Shank, the association already has means of obtaining some funds and also will be soliciting for additional scholarship money.

Bob Ritchie, director from New Hampshire, reported on four possible by-law changes that will restructure the districts across the country. Every three years the bylaws committee examines the population distribution of Ayrshire breeders to determine how breeders can best be represented.

The proposed change would combine the New England and New York area for district 1; Pennsylvania, New Jersey and to the Mississippi for district 2; Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Illinois for district 3; and the remainder of the states will be in district 4.

In addition, presently there are two directors to each district. The proposed change is for three directors for each district and the two-year term would be changed to three years which would be staggered.

Also, for those breeders who breed a cow, the calf would carry the same prefix as the dam. If members decide to advance these proposals they will appear on the November ballot.

Good news in the production department for Ayrshire breeders: 1988 was a year for record setting highs. Those individual cows reaching 20,000 pounds milk production in 305 days on twice-a-day milking reached 147 this year. That figure is up by 32 over the previous year's numbers.

Six cows exceeded 25,000 pounds milk production:

Woodbine Farms Consignment Brings $26,000

BY MARIANNE WALKER
Centre Co. Correspondent

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Excellent. That word appears eleven times in the three-generation pedigree of C Romandale Astro Lara-ET in the catalog of the Supreme Creations Calf Sale held recently at University Park.

Representatives of Poverty Hollow Farm, Conu, New York, thought highly enough of that pedigree to offer a final bid of $26,000 for this March, 1988, heifer calf from Woodbine Farms of Airville. And what a pedigree. This heifer is sired by Bridon Astro Jet who earned a Superior Type Sire Title in 1984. The sire's sire is Paclamar Astronaut, a Gold Medal Proven Sire.

The dam is Northcroft Elle Elevation, a Gold Medal Dam, an All-Time All-American Aged Cow, and an All-American Aged Cow in 1980, 1981, and 1982. This impressive cow has a lifetime production record of 205,347M, 3,9F. The maternal granddam is Northcroft Ella Arlinda, also a Gold Medal Dam with a lifetime production of 155,197M, 3.5F. The maternal grandsire is Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation, one of three Gold Medal Proven Sires in this heifer's pedigree.

Going for a price of $18,500 was Plushanski B-Troy Forte-ET, a January, 1989, heifer calf consigned by Plushanski Farms, Inc. of Kutztown. Purchased by the Forte Syndicate of Imler, she is sired by Ripvalley NA Bell Troy-ET, a Very Good, 88 pt. The paternal grandsire is Carlin-M Ivanhoe Bell, a Gold Medal Proven Sire.

Topping the Supreme Creations Calf Sale was C Romandale Astro Lara-ET, which was purchased by Poverty Hollow Farms of Confu, New York for $26,000. She was consigned by Woodbine Farms of Airville.

On the maternal side, the dam is Plushanski Neil Flute, a Very Good 87 pt., a Gold Medal Dam with a lifetime production of 102,063M, 5.0F. The maternal grandsire is Sun Valley Sensation Neil, a Gold Medal Proven Sire; and the maternal granddam is Plushanski Job Fancy, a Very Good, 87 pt. with a lifetime production of 109,080M, 4.7F.

Springbrook Farms of Marshall, Indiana, purchased Rothrock Cleitus Lecena-ET from Rothrock Golden Holstein Farms of Kempton for $8,750. This July, 1988, heifer calf is sired by Bis-May Tradition Cleitus, a Very Good 87 pt. whose sire is Sweet Haven Tradition, a Gold Medal Proven Sire. The dam is Walkup Valiant Lou Ella, an Excellent, 92

Spray weevils early with Furadan® 4F insecticide and save.

When you spray your alfalfa for weevil prior to first cutting you'll save yields and free up your time later, when you're really busy.

Alfalfa weevils begin feeding prior to first cutting. This can hurt tonnage, quality and stands. Spraying early not only prevents all this, but it means that you won't have to worry about it after first cutting—when you may not have time to spray at all.

Furadan® 4F insecticide from FMC.

The best choice for early alfalfa weevil control Because you have more to do than worry about weevil.

Ask your feed supplier about SoyPLUS®.

SoyPLUS can boost income over feed costs by delivering more undegradable protein to the small intestine, where nutrient absorption really takes place.

SoyPLUS is a richly aromatic, high-energy soybean meal that has been processed in a unique way to increase its level of undegradable (bypass) protein. University research and many 20,000-pound herds are proving that SoyPLUS can significantly increase your return over feed costs.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

-Two more counties have dropped from ranks of the Southeast Dist. 4-H Baby Beef and Lamb show for 1959, marking the second straight year the scope of this event has been narrowed.

County Agent Max M. Smith reported, following the Wednesday night meeting of show directors at the Stockyards 'Exchange Room' that Adams and York county officials have decided not to enter the district event this year. Last year Lebanon, Berks and Cumberland counties dropped out.

-Governor David L. Lawrence said this week his administration is preparing legislation in connection with a four-point program to advance the marketing of Pennsylvania farm products. He said he was hopeful the bills would be ready for introduction this week.

"Pennsylvania agriculture has not kept pace with other competing areas in the marketing of its products," he said. "Marketing has not kept pace with production advances. The proposed programs will be mutually beneficial to producers, distributors and consumers."

-Max M. Smith, Lancaster County agent, this week reminded county farmers of the value of proper timing in plowing down cover crops this spring.

Smith pointed out that the use of cover crops in Lancaster County is particularly valuable in view of the fact that soils here are among the lowest in the state in organic matter content.

-Members of the Lancaster County Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association on Wednesday heard York-Lancaster District Vo-Ag Director T. M. Malin of York report a 1957-58 school year total labor income of $86,776.99 for the county's 357 vocational agriculture students completing projects last year.

Net profit for the county's FFA members, before the addition of their own labor worth, was $71,708.94 according to reports submitted by the instructor-advisors of the nine vocational agriculture departments in the county.

-Farm Women No. 10 met Saturday in the home of Mrs. Edward Bowers, Lititz RD3.

Roll call was answered by devotions given by Mrs. Wayne G. Brubaker.

The members voted to serve as hostesses to patients at the County Hospital April 9. On April 28, members will serve as waitresses at Heart Haven Bazaar.

Lancaster Countians Attend Environmental Education Conference

LANCASTER — Robert E. Wagner of Quarryville and Robert E. Gregory of Lititz recently attended "Environmental Education in 1989," an executive council session of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) held earlier this month.

Approximately 150 conservationists from across the state gathered to discuss a variety of environmental topics including Pennsylvania's environmental education programs, the Rural Abandoned Mine Program (RAMP), wetlands construction for water quality, and resource conservation and development for the 1990s.

The highlight of the meeting was an address by Representative David R. Wright (D-Clarion). A key advocate of environmental education in Pennsylvania, Wright is striving to establish an Office of Environmental Education for the Commonwealth.

Having served the 63rd legislative district for almost 12 years, Wright now holds the position of chairman of the Committee on Consumer Affairs, chairman of the Center for Rural Pennsylvania, and vice chairman of the Board of the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency.

Wagner is vice president and Gregory is administrator with the Lancaster Conservation District.

new technology, confronted with the same industry suspicion which greeted A.I. and bulk tanks. But, controversial or not, BST, if and when approved by FDA, could be available for dairy farmer use within the year. The university is taking no position on the product, but making available to farmers compiled research findings.

BST is a natural protein hormone needed by all mammals, produced in the bodies of both cows and humans, and is naturally found in milk. It helps to coordinate how energy from feed intake is utilized in the animal's system.

After extensive testing, no increase has been found in the levels of BST in milk from treated animals over the BST levels in milk from non-treated, control animals. Since it is a protein, BST is not orally active if ingested by mouth, nor is it harmful if accidentally injected.

Frequency of dosages range from daily to monthly, depending on how each firm producing the product establishes usage. However, says Dr. Muller, dosage intervals of two to four weeks seem most palatable. Adaptation of cows to the periodic injections has not been a problem.

Production response per head, from compiled statistics of seven separate research stations, ranged in the area of 8 to 11 pounds milk increase per day, and within three to four days of BST administration. A 15 percent increase, or 8.4 pounds milk per head per day, was an overall average production response to BST.

BST efficiency was greatest when administered beginning at 80-90 days into lactation, just after production peaked. With an estimated 215 days remaining in a 305-day lactation, at an additional 8.4 pounds per day, an average gain of 1800 pounds per lactation might be expected with BST.

Most successful response was in mature cows, those in second or greater lactations, ranging from 6 to 13 pounds per day increases. First lactation cows show less overall average response, from 1 to 6 pounds per day increase, possibly due to continuing body growth to maturity.

Feed intake, however, must be increased 5 to 10 percent, to compensate for the greater energy needed by the cow to produce additional pounds. Without increased feed levels, animals draw extra production resources from their own body reserves. And, a delay in administering BST until about 90 days helps avoid putting the cow in a negative energy intake position during the first months of heavy production after freshening.

There are concerns for delayed breeding, due to the added draw on body resources for greater production. However, BST in no way affects the endocrine system controlling reproductive hormones.

Body reserves, noted Dr. Muller, must be restored during late lactation and the dry period. With BST usage, dairy producers might have to redo feeding programs to provide higher energy intake to end-lactation, dry, and "close" cows.

"BST management strategies are similar to those used for all high production cows," he advised.

Economics of BST will have to be weighed in each individual dairymen's management situation. It requires no capital investment outlay, but does impact costs through increased labor, feed, and cost of the product itself. Other profitability factors include herd health, milk price, rate of industry acceptance and long-term response.

While researchers have no surefire way of guaging dairy industry acceptance, projections are for 15 to 25 percent early acceptance of BST increasing to up to 50 percent within five years after and, if, approved for use.

A 25-percent adoption rate of BST, at the average lactation increase of 1800 pounds, would increase production nationwide by an estimated 3 percent. Likewise, a 50-percent adoption rate, about the industry usage rate of DHIA testing, would boost production about six percent.

FDA approval is expected when safety for use on cows, as well as safety for meat and milk consumption by the public has been satisfactorily demonstrated, and the product is deemed an effective industry production tool.

Continuing wariness among dairymen over the impact of BST approval was evident in a lively question-answer session which wrapped up Muller's presentation. Consumer perception and acceptance of BST treated milk, decreasing milk prices with production increases, cow health and cost effectiveness are concerns dairymen are wrestling with as apparent from the discussion.

However, when questioned, other say they are ready to at least give BST a try in their management program, when - and if - FDA gives the OK.

Hosts for the York Holstein barn meeting were, from left, Ramsay, Veda and son Scott Cooper, who opened their 60-head stall barn for the annual gathering. Scott, a recent Delaware Valley College dairy science graduate, manages the registered Holsteins, with a herd average of 18,600 milk, 722 fat, 600 protein, while Ramsay handles crops and machinery.

Ag Teachers In Workshop

BLUE BALL — The Lancaster County Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association sponsored a welding workshop in cooperation with M.H. Eby of Blue Ball on Wed., April 12.

The workshop involved a tour of the aluminum trailer manufacturing plant and hands-on instruction by welders employed by Eby using MIG welders. Company representatives from Century Manufacturing and Keystone Gas made presentations about equipment available from their companies.

The workshop was planned by the ag teacher group to better prepare them in the new fields of agriculture mechanics. Because the teachers are training students for a vocation in a field of agriculture it is important for them to be up to date with the new technologies in today's agriculture industries. Several schools are considering adding MIG type welders to their agriculture curriculum.

Bill Shrum, human resource manager for M.H. Eby, stressed the constant need for workers with sound mechanical abilities. He encouraged the ag teachers to expose their students to a variety of mechanical skills such as MIG welding. Several agriculture students from local high schools have worked with employees at Eby on an On-The-Job Training Co-Op Program.

A number of workshops have been planned by the LCVATA in an effort to stay on the "Leading Edge" of the new fields of agriculture. Students interested in a career in agriculture should contact their local agriculture program instructors.

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder can free you from your chains

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb. per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year.

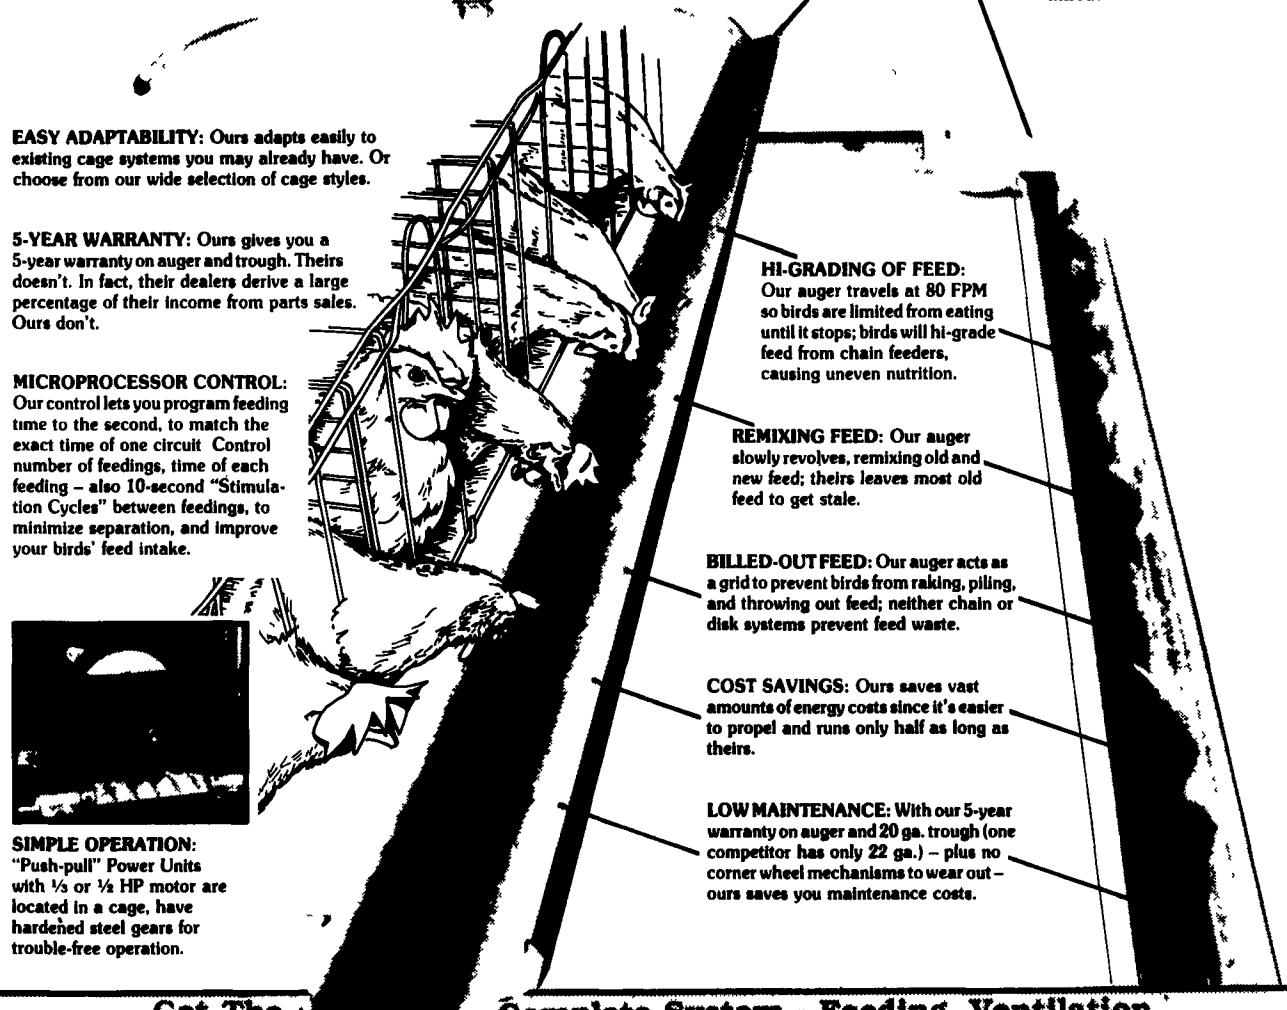
TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 10 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.

EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake.



HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale.

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs.

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs.

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation.

Area Conservationists Take Part In Professional Skills Training

HARRISBURG — On March 31, Maynard King, Richard Kadwill, and Donald Fitzpatrick, representing the Montgomery County Conservation District, joined approximately 38 conservationists recently at the "Building for Tomorrow" Professional Skills Training Program for Conservation District Directors at the Montgomery County 4H Center.

Seven counties were represented at the conference in Creamery. Co-sponsored by the State Conservation Commission and the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, the conference featured an orientation session for new Conservation District staff and directors, a presentation on polishing your District's public image through public speaking engagements and information on PennAccord's mediation services.

Pat Devlin, executive director of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, says the value of this program is that "we bring professional skills training as close to home as possible by holding regional training sessions."

Devlin added that this is a "rare opportunity for district directors and staff from a 10-county area to share particular problems and success stories that are otherwise left unnoticed by neighboring Conservation Districts."

The afternoon session allowed district directors and staff to fine tune their professional skills, for example, in the areas of managerial techniques, problem solving, communications, relationships with elected officials and their supervisory skills.

Maynard King is the district manager, Richard Kadwill is an erosion and sediment control specialist and Donald Fitzpatrick is a technician with the Montgomery County Conservation District.

Seven regional training conferences were held in March across the state.

pressure in the feeders was in response to reports of lower cash prices paid today for replacement feeders at auction barns along with a 40 point drop on the cash index. The front three live cattle options closed from 18 to 87 points lower as continued bearish expectations for large increases in fed cattle supplies and placements into feelots pressured. Further pressure was in response to USDA reports of slow fed cattle sales today in the Texas panhandle. April live cattle settled 87 points lower at $76.45 while April feeders dropped 77 points at $76.40.

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE - 4/10/89 - $77.97 dn $ .40.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: CASH - steady to weak FUTURES - steady to lower

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed higher across the board, but near session lows on late profit-taking from this morning's gains. Further weakness was attributed to spillover from declining cattle prices. Prices traded sharply higher this morning with the June meeting resistance at $46.45. Support was in response to continued expectations for a decrease in marketings once producers begin fieldwork. Bellies settled from 20 lower on the February option to 28 higher on the August on shortcovering in response to ideas the pit had become over sold.

Prospective Planting Stats Encouraging In Pennsylvania

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Pennsylvania farmers are responding well to market conditions and to the possibility of another drought, says Penn State economist George Greaser.

"Farmers are reacting to continued strong commodity prices for wheat and other small grains by having planted more last fall and planning to plant more acreage in these crops this spring," says Greaser. "They are also spreading the risk of drought loss because small grains tend to be drought resistant. They also tend to be short-season crops, so some farmers may have the option of double cropping with soybeans, if moisture levels hold," he says.

Greaser is responding to USDA's Highlights of Prospective Plantings, based on a survey by the Agricultural Statistics Board of what 65,000 farmers plan to plant this year. Greaser is a research associate in the department of agricultural economics.

"Since planting intentions are not as high as the industry expected, the market will be bullish. Trading and commodity prices will be very volatile over the next three months and will be dominated by the weather," Greaser says.

Nationally, farmers will plant 54 million acres in wheat. In Pennsylvania, winter wheat production is up 26 percent as opposed to a national increase of 12 percent. But even with the increase, there's little danger of flooding the market, says Greaser. The 10-year high was in 1985 when U.S. farmers planted 65 million acres. Winter wheat was planted last fall and will be harvested in Pennsylvania during June and July. "Pennsylvania farmers will be looking at a fairly decent commodity price for their wheat," he says.

Corn crops will increase 8 percent nationally but will remain stable in Pennsylvania. The report projects that in Pennsylvania 1.48 million acres will be planted in corn—the same level as last year. In 1987 the state had 1.55 million acres planted in corn.

"Many farmers assume that there'll be enough corn from the midwest and from their own production to keep prices fairly reasonable," says Greaser. Poultry and hog farmers are especially dependent on corn, while dairy farmers, who produce a lot of Pennsylvania corn, rely more on protein feeds like soybeans and soybean-mill alternatives.

"Farmers should expect a strong commodity price for oats," he says. The report indicates that state farmers intend to plant 300,000 acres in oats. Last year they planted 290,000.

Other Pennsylvania projections were 260,000 acres in soybeans, up 13 percent from 230,000 acres last year; and 80,000 acres in barley, up 33 percent from 60,000 acres last year. These figures reflect intentions to double-crop barley and soybeans or wheat and soybeans.

USDA's Agricultural Statistics Board will issue the next set of crop projections May 11 and another set in July. Thereafter, during the harvest season, reports will be issued monthly.

This month's statistics can be found under Market Reports on PENpages, the College of Agriculture's public electronic information system. For information about how to access PENpages, contact your county Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

operations at a congressional hearing and the state's veal protection act was killed in committee.

But we still have an up-hill battle against false information and negative public relations words that are aimed at the source of our excellent American food supply. All farmers can do is to keep up to date on the best methods to care for their animals and then let everyone who will listen know that these modern methods do consider the welfare of the animal.

And if the parent part of the farmer feels the need to respond in kind to his critics, he might want to call his calf hutch a "love crib."

Equipment Loaned To Alfred State Ag Program

ALFRED, NY — An interest in "learning by doing" on the part of a Pennsylvania businessman has resulted in an educational loan to Alfred State College of several pieces of equipment for use in agriculture-related curriculums.

New chainsaws, portable sprayers, and a backpack have been received from Canns-Bilco Distributors of Alburtis. The loan was arranged by company president Roger Cann after learning of Alfred State's "hands-on" approach to teaching.

The equipment will be used by student in the college's agricultural engineering, landscape development, and general agriculture curriculums, according to Charles M. Massey, assistant professor in the agricultural industries department.

He said the items will be used in courses on air-cooled engine overhaul and maintenance, forestry management, and a variety of landscape maintenance instruction procedures.

"The ability to receive this type of industry support has made Alfred State a leader in ag-related fields," said Massey. "Our programs will make use of this equipment in the field and in the laboratory to continue to provide qualified trained graduates for the large number of job opening notifications we receive."

Break Through In Plant Production

Ecologically Safe And Very Profitable

nitro/max

For Crop Production That Is COST EFFECTIVE...and Ecologically Safe

Low inputs and high yields have been the goal of farmers for years. By using the J&J SOIL FERTILITY PROGRAM, it is possible to cut your production costs up to 50%.

After over 15 years of scientific and field research, NITRO/MAX, a prime component of the J&J FERTILITY PROGRAM, is being used successfully on thousands of acres across the United States and in foreign countries.

By activating the soil microbes and increasing soil aeration, NITRO/MAX, accompanied by its companion products J&J SOIL CONDITIONER, and NITRO/CAL, makes more efficient use of residual and applied nitrogen, as well as converting atmospheric nitrogen into a nitrate form in the soil for crop production.

The J&J SOIL FERTILITY PROGRAM restores biological soil life that has been destroyed by chemicals and fertilizers, thus unlocking minerals stored in the soil which were not available and useable to the plant.

The basic J&J SOIL FERTILITY PROGRAM costs about $13 per acre per year, giving yields equal to or better than past production records, while cutting fertilizer inputs drastically.

You owe it to yourself to learn how the J&J SOIL FERTILITY program works. Find out why many farmers are "sold" on the J&J program.

S & S Silo Service Has Experience

Over 160 Silos Have Been Relined With Shotcrete

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

ATTENTION TOBACCO GROWERS

Golden Leaf Tobacco Company Would Like To Encourage You To Increase 609 Tobacco Production In 1989.

We have increased our orders for your tobacco over the past several years and could have purchased 1 million pounds more had it been available in 1988. Surplus government stock has been depleted and US grown tobacco inventory is at its lowest level in years.

Our goal has been to establish a strong market for Pennsylvania 609 by personally visiting manufacturers overseas and here in the US. Our goal has been met!

The outlook is good for 1989 as more US grown tobacco is needed for cigarette production both in the US and overseas.

It is our desire to continue to work closely with each of you. We are daily continuing our efforts to build the 609 tobacco demand into a lasting market that will carry into the future. Our company prides itself on a relationship with the farmers based on honesty, integrity and loyalty. If we can be of service to you please feel free to call.

Agricultural Land Preserve Board Members Named

HARRISBURG — Gov. Robert P. Casey today announced the appointment of five members to the newly established State Agricultural Land Preservation Board, which is responsible for administering a $100 million program to save prime Pennsylvania farmland.

Gov. Casey's appointments to the board were York County Commissioner Lorraine Hovis; William Hughes of Meridian Bank in Berks County; Louise Midla, a farmer from Marianna, Washington County; Bernard Hankin of the Eagleview Corp. Center; and Jefferson Township Supervisor Russell Nickel.

Under a law signed by Gov. Casey last December, the land preservation board will administer a statewide program to purchase agricultural easements. Farmland protected through easement purchases cannot be developed.

Other members of the board include the secretaries of agriculture, community affairs and environmental resources, along with the dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture and four members of the General Assembly.

Legislative appointments to the board are made by leaders of the House and Senate. House Minority Leader Matthew J. Ryan (R-Delaware) named Kenneth Rutt of Quarryville, Lancaster County, to the board; House Speaker James J. Manderino (D-Westmoreland) named Frederick Slezak of New Alexandria, Westmoreland County; and Senate Minority Leader Robert J. Mellow (D-Lackawanna) named James Cappucci of Mehoopany, Wyoming County. Senate President Pro Tempore Robert C. Jubelirer has not yet made his appointment to the 17-member board.

Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff, who serves as chairman, scheduled the first board meeting for April 19 in the Agriculture Building in Harrisburg.

The board is authorized to certify county preservation programs and allocate money for easement purchases in each county.

Blooming Business For The Jolly Green Giant

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — They're already in the thick of the harvest season at Stambaugh's Greenhouses.

In fact, the first "pickings" from this crop were loaded for market before Easter. Flats filled with beautifully-blooming geraniums headed south to retail outlets, from this hillside greenhouse complex at 3905 Susquehanna Trail, York.

That first shipment of the season barely made the proverbial dent in some 80,000 geranium plants grown annually by Leona and Ellsworth Gemmill for wholesaling to retail garden centers. Geraniums produced on this family farm operation add cheerful summertime color to thousands of gardens in the mid-Atlantic area.

Stambaugh's Greenhouses opened for business during Easter season of 1945, though founder W.R. "Bill" Stambaugh had not originally intended to be in the potted plant business at all.

Stambaugh acquired his first greenhouse for the purpose of drying gladioli bulbs. Then a brakeman at the Pennsylvania Railroad's Enola yards, he and his wife grew a few acres of glads for the cut flower market as a sideline.

Problems with drying down the bulbs in the fall for winter storage set him searching for a greenhouse for that purpose. A glad-growing friend with a greenhouse was giving up his business; Stambaugh made an offer that promptly made him new owner of the glass structure. After tearing it down, moving the components and rebuilding it at the farm north of York, Stambaugh figured the investment was going to have to generate more return than mere bulb drying space.

With World War II winding down and a nation hungry for a more uplifting mood, he saw the potential demand for flowers. Though potted flowers were a bit scarce, he was able through a friend to locate a supply of seasonal blooming plants just in time for Easter.

An "open" sign went up out front, customers liked what they found, returned, sent others, and the business was launched. That sign was the only advertising ever done by this unassuming, but highly successful, family operation.

Now, 45 years later, Stambaugh's daughter and son-in-law have just officially taken over reins of the greenhouse operation. And, on some occasions, four generations of this family work together to plant and harvest its beautiful crops. Daughter Virginia Baker works full time with the family, and 12-year-old granddaughter Jamie occasionally lends a hand on days off from school.

During the early years, Stambaugh grew and retailed a wide range of bedding annuals, garden vegetable plants, seasonal bulbs and holiday plants, even Christmas trees. The first of many expansions of additional greenhouses came only two years after the "open" sign went up.

"We didn't know where we were going," relates the affable Bill Stambaugh. "We just started and went the way things went."

Wholesaling was eventually the way things went, as Stambaugh's market sense recognized possibilities in the surging building and economic boom bursting behind the lean war years.

"There was an opportunity for someone to grow geraniums; there has always been more demand than supply for them," he relates.

And, it is primarily around geraniums that the business was built and continues to thrive. Approximately ten varieties of assorted colors comprise the annual crop, some of them long-time, proven performers, along with newer, promising types. Color trends are also considered, though red continues to be the first choice for many gardeners.

Stambaugh's Greenhouses grows no geraniums from seed, preferring the larger size, as well as the fuller and more rapid bloom of cutting-grown plants. Cutting geraniums are reportedly the second high in volume of bedding plants sold nationwide, despite predictions at one time that the seed types would replace the popularity of their cutting-grown cousins. According to Stambaugh, the blooms on seed-grown geraniums shatter more quickly than those produced by cutting-grown plants.

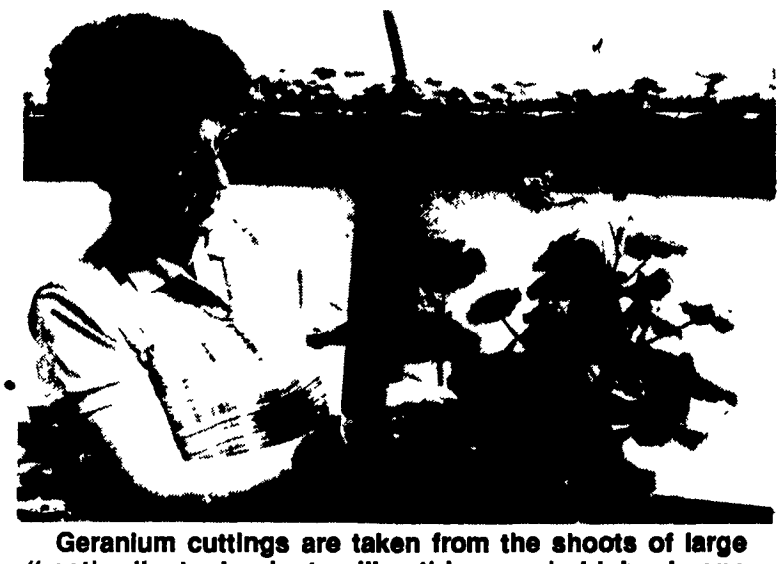
Newest variety of geranium grown at Stambaugh's is "Aurora," a deep fuschia shade.

Expanses of blooms in shades of reds, pinks and fuschias fill the benches at Stambaugh's Greenhouses.



Geranium cuttings are taken from the shoots of large "mother" stock plants, like this one held by Leona Gemmill.

First cuttings are taken from the large mother plants in mid-October, and tucked into sterilized soil in small pots, 35 to a flat. Flats go onto a "hot rack," in the upper levels of the houses, with automatic watering and bottom heat to encourage rooting and cut rotting losses. After about three weeks, the batch is moved to the waist-high benches which stretch wall-to-wall through the houses.

Successive crops of cuttings follow at regular intervals, while batches of the rooted geraniums get their final transplant into four-inch pots. Plants develop from cuttings to full market size, complete with fluffy blooms, in five months. The last cuttings, taken in early February, mature to wrap-up the season by Independence Day.

Largest volumes of the geraniums go to wholesale customers around the metropolitan areas of Baltimore and Washington, D.C. While housing expansion has cramped most other types of agriculture enterprises in the region, it has proven a boon for flower and garden plant growers.

"The interest in plants is growing," confirms a pleased Stambaugh, who still handles deliveries for the operation. "Look at all the housing developments; when one neighbor plants flowers, the other neighbors plant flowers, too. People have more money to spend on making their properties attractive. We've felt the dips in the economy over the years, but we've always sold out."

Quality plays a large role in that, a sense of pride that is evident in the attitude of this friendly family. Quality takes precedence over quantity, and all three generations fret when uncontrollables, like last summer's extreme heat, affects plants' performance.

"I enjoy so much getting these ready, especially when they're nice," smiles Leona Gemmill, as she fills an order from a bench thick with crisp green leaves and apple-blossom-pink blooms.

The needs and market timing for two additional popular floral crops mesh well into the geranium culture schedule and conditions. Hanging baskets of fuschia, a favorite Mother's Day gift, provide a harvest from the upper levels of the greenhouses. They thrive several feet above the long rows of benches, bringing economic return in space where stocky geraniums never reach.

Even the 2,500 hanging baskets of fuschias now filling out and pushing buds fall short of customer demand for these lovely specimen plants. Cuttings taken from stock plants grow full and bushy with two pinchings to encourage branching.

Fuschias are sensitive to adverse soil moisture conditions and require frequent checks to guard against either over or under watering. Their location, some six feet or so overhead in the greenhouses, has led to Ellsworth Gemmill's skill on stilts.

Endless climbing on and moving ladders to monitor the fuschias' moisture proved burdensome. So, some years ago, using the concept of plasterers' stilts, Gemmill devised an experimental pair of high-rise footgear to raise him to eye level with the hanging baskets. Having conquered that skill, he now straps on a pair of commercial plasterers' stilts to monitor and water the long rows of fuschias soaking up sun from their heady height.

And, as the final cuttings of geraniums and fuschias are just nicely filling pots with healthy roots, the annual shipment of rooted poinsettia cuttings arrived in late March from California. First planted to four-inch pots, then moved to the eight-inch size, those become stock plants for the crop of consumers' favorite Christmas plants.

Initial poinsettia cuttings are made about the same time the last geraniums go out, keeping the 30,000 square feet of greenhouse space in year-round use.

"It's never ending; someone has to be here all the time," says Leona of the rotation of these popular plant crops.

On bright, sunny days, the plants need daily watering. Plants are fed every 10 to 14 days. A planned addition of automatic watering equipment, with built-in fertilization capabilities, will ease the physical labor of watering by hand with hoses.

Stambaugh's was one of the first greenhouse operations in the area many years ago to convert from costly glass structures to the quonset-style, plastic-covered style house. They were still such an innovative idea at that time that no building packages were on the market. Stambaugh opted to build his own.

Water pipes were used for the superstructure over which the plastic is stretched. But, no device for bending the heavy pipe was available, so again, Stambaugh did some inventing. The first pipe bender, of wood, split under the pressure of bending the pipe. A steel, motorized, revised design proved more durable.

All but two of the Stambaugh's dozen greenhouses are of plastic in quonset style. Modern materials are a vast improvement over early sheeting plastics, which aged rapidly to brittleness, and lasted a year at most. These improved plastics are so durable that they only need replaced every three years.

"One of our biggest worries was always over whether the plastic would hold. Sometimes during bad storms, we'd be out patching seams," Stambaugh remembers. And, Leona recalls a day she was working in a greenhouse when suddenly the plastic simply popped, like a balloon.

Several houses get new plastic each year, in three year rotations, in a procedure which involves hauling a single cut-to-size piece, across the top of the metal pipe ribbing with ropes, and fastening tightly all around. A house can be completely recovered in about two hours, barring such problems as wind interference. After years of experience, this family recovers greenhouses early in the morning, since winds generally stay calm until about 9 a.m.

Temperature weighs heavily in greenhouse growing conditions, and there are backups all around for the hot water heating system used in this complex. Coal fuels the main system, with an oil-fired backup, and a stand-by generator for electrical outtages.

"We would be done if we lost our heat," flatly states Leona Gemmill.

Stambaugh remembers a few close calls over the years. One cold, snowy morning he stepped into a greenhouse filled with cold air. But not a plant was lost to the heating failure, since the snow cover acted as an insulator. On another occasion, a storm knocked power out all around the Stambaughs, while their current was never interrupted.

"The Man upstairs takes care of that," quickly credits Stambaugh.

The hardiness of geraniums allows a tolerance to a range of temperatures; and few pests, save an occasional infestation of white fly, bother them.

"Geraniums need lots of sunlight or their leaves will turn yellow," advises Gemmill. "They need water when it gets hot and dry during the summer. You can't hurt a geranium by letting it get too dry; more are lost by overwatering."

Geranium buyers should look for short, "stalky" plants, advise these experts. And, the more "breaks," or side shoots, and the lower they are on the plant, the better, for compact bushiness and plenty of blooms.

Although they have considered retailing, Stambaugh and the Gemmills have chosen to remain wholesale growers, concentrating on the quality of their crop and leaving the retail end to those specialists.

"When you produce a good crop, it just makes you feel good about it," Stambaugh reflects. "We never get tired of it."

Or as Leona Gemmill sums it up — no pun intended — "It's a business that just grows on you."

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Only a few cows remained to be milked at the far end of the dairy barn. And, outside, the pale light of dusk was fast fading into night.

Suddenly, the barn interior brightened, as the long rows of florescent fixtures lit up over the feeding alleyways in front of each row of cows.

At almost the same instant, brief "mooing" sounds erupted from scattered spots down the double row of cows. Welcoming greetings they were, acknowledgement of the evening's round of grain feeding which was about to commence.

Though it should be old hat to me by now, the response of the dairy herd to such small happenings still fascinates me. Even though its member makeup changes somewhat constantly, and only a few individuals remain from, say, ten years, the herd's overall reaction to certain stimuli remains constant and predictable. The moment those side-alleyway lights come on in the barn, the cows take for granted that scoops of their grain ration are forthcoming. And, by gosh, if it isn't forthcoming soon enough, the welcome tone of the mooing abruptly turns loud and demanding, almost bossy you might say.

Feeding of baled hay evokes a similar response. Apparently that gentle "plunk" of a dull pocketknife breaking through a string of baline twine can be heard at a distance of 40 cows away. Or maybe it's the aroma of the hay as the sections fall apart. Or the cloud of hay dust particles that accompanies the task of slicing open bales.

Whatever the reason, hay feeding gets the attention of even the most laid back herd member. Every head comes up, ears perk and staring eyes remain riveted on one's every move until each cow has her share — and in some cases, a little of her neighbors' if she can manage to snag a section and yank it closer to her own trough turf.

Few barn sounds are more satisfying to me than the loud rustling of the whole herd of cows chewing their way through a feeding of fragrant alfalfa hay.

Another collective habit practiced by the herd is lying down in their stalls almost as soon as the milkers are removed. Remove the milker, dip the teats, and boom, down goes that cow, almost as if a button were pushed to collapse her legs. Occasionally, one will get off her timing a bit, and flop right down on the milking unit before it's finished the job.

It's not unheard of to have a cow almost flatten you in her rush to rest, as you remove the milking machine.

This is especially noticeable on days when the cows don't get back into their stalls until a bit later in the day than normal. That seems to mess up their late afternoon naptime schedule. Eating and chewing one's cud all day long must be a fatiguing job.

But it's not just the cows which respond to "trigger" sounds.

The clanking of a stainless steel bucket into which we milk fresh cows separately brings a stampede of cats. The slamming sound of the metal milk house door sometimes generates a similar response, but not as dependably as does that ringing tone of the bucket's handle jangling against its side.

Of course, sound of the milk house door might mean anything from milk truck pickup to inspection to sales people to someone simply wanting to rinse their boots off with the hose. Then, too, it might mean a dish of milk for the cats.

But the milk bucket clanking is almost guarantee of a dish of milk for the cats. And you had better believe those felines figure that out, too. Fast.

Come to think of it, people aren't much different from animals in their response to trigger stimuli.

We have a standing joke in this family about the call of the ice cream. Like most farmers, our falls sound asleep the moment he stretches out on the couch in front of the TV. Talking to him, asking questions, even the ringing of the phone may never be heard.

But let one of us tiptoe to the kitchen, open the freezer door and mumble under our breath the words "ice cream." That generates an immediate, awakening response.

It might be something we could adapt to the alarm clock industry.

Diamond Anniversary

WEST CHESTER (Chester) — Chester County Cooperative Extension has announced plans to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the Cooperative Extension System. According to Trudy Dougherty, Chester County extension director, the local celebration is part of a national recognition of May 8, 1914, as the beginning of the Cooperative Extension System in the nation.

The local celebration, "Lift Off with Extension", will take place on Saturday, May 6 at Oakbourne Park in Westtown Township and will include a formal opening ceremony at 11:00 a.m. with a 75th anniversary cake served to all in attendance at 11:30 a.m. At noon, a precision skydiving team will land on the green in front of the mansion at Oakbourne. Other attractions include a family fitness walk, a guided nature trail walk, educational displays highlighting Cooperative Extension's programs, 4-H exhibits and demonstrations, Chester County farm commodity food booths, a model airplane club's exhibition, and a day-long visit from Penn State's Nittany Lion (the same Nittany Lion that prowls the sidelines of Beaver Stadium during each Penn State home football game).

Oakbourne Park is located on Matlack Street, 1 mile east of the intersection with Route 202. The park will be open from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Parking and admission are free. For more information, contact the Chester County Cooperative Extension at 696-3500.

'Berry' Good Recipes

Blueberries bring visions of summer abundance. Fortunately, preserved blueberries make it possible to enjoy them year 'round.

Freezing is the best way to preserve the color, nutrients and good taste of abundant fruit harvests. For best results, start with the best. Choose berries that are firm, plump and full colored for the variety.

To freeze berries, handle with care. Wash in ice water, drain. Dry-pack in freezer bags or plastic containers or sugar-pack or freeze in medium syrup. Use dry-packed berries partially frozen. Syrup-packed fruit should be defrosted slowly in the freezer bag in the refrigerator to allow time for absorption of juices. In some recipes, frozen fruit can be cooked without thawing.

To enjoy frozen blueberries at their peak of perfection, use with six to 12 months.

Across the state, dairy princesses and their alternates from40 Pennsylvania counties are touting the goodness of milk and the importance of the dairy industry. The young women earn valuable experience by appearing at schools and before groups. They serve a one-year term with the opportunity to receive cash awards.

To promote the industy, they often distribute recipes using dairy products. Angelique McDonald, the Bedford County Dairy Princess, contributed this week's featured recipe.

Once again the dairy industry is seeking candidates. Any single woman is eligible to compete for the title if she has completed her junior year in high school, is not older than 24 years of age, never married and whose parents or guardians are or have engaged in dairy farming within the last three years, or if she, herself, is a full-time employee on an operating dairy farm or is the owner of at least two animals of the six major dairy breeds in a bona fide 4-H or FFA project prior to May 1, 1989.

Don't be shy. Contact Jan Harding, dairy princess coordinator, at 214 S. St., Box 640, Clarion, PA 16214 or call (814) 226-7470.

Deadline to register is fast approaching, so call immediately.

ANSWER — Harriet Brown, Mifflintown, requested a recipe for potato chowder. Thanks to J. Stuckey, Annville; Marlene Weaver, Lititz; and Kathy Konhus, Pottsville; for answering.

Potato Chowder

3 slices bacon
1 large onion, chopped
3 stalks celery, thinly sliced
1½ pounds boiling potatoes, peeled and diced
3 cups chicken broth
1½ cups water
6 boneless, skinned chicken thighs
4 cups corn kernels, fresh or frozen
3 cups half and half
1½ teaspoons leaf thyme, crumbled (optional)
¼ teaspoon black pepper
Salt (optional)

Cut bacon into ¼ -inch pieces. Cook with onion in large heavy saucepan or soup pot over medium heat for about 10 minutes or until bacon begins to turn very light brown.

Add celery, potato, chicken broth and water to saucepan. Bring to boiling. Add chicken. Lower heat and simmer partially covered over low heat for about 15 to 20 minutes or until chicken is cooked thoroughly.

Remove chicken with tongs and set aside. Add corn, half and half, thyme and pepper to saucepan. Simmer, uncovered for 5 to 8 minutes.

Cut chicken into ½ -inch pieces. Return to saucepan. Taste chowder and season with salt if necessary. Best if refrigerated overnight. Serve hot. To reheat, heat slowly.

Potato Chowder

4 cups peeled, diced potatoes
½ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
1 cup grated carrots
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
4 chicken bouillon cubes
6 cups scalded milk
4 tablespoons butter
½ cup flour

In large Dutch oven or kettle, combine potatoes, onion, carrot, salt, pepper, parsley flakes and bouillon cubes. Add enough water to cover vegetables; cook until vegetables are tender, about 15 to 20 minutes. Do not drain. Scald milk by heating to 180 degrees or until tiny bubbles form around edge of pan. Remove 1½ cups milk and add butter and flour to hot milk, stirring with wire wisk. Add remaining hot milk to undrained vegetables, then stir in thickened milk mixture. Stir until blended. Simmer for 15 minutes on low heat. Yield 8 to 10 servings.

ANSWER — Mary Hammond, Wellsboro, requested a recipe for yogurt. Thanks Louise Tardy of Lexington, VA, for answering. She writes that making yogurt is much simpler than it sounds, and always turns out well. If for some reason, it is not quite set at the end of 8 hours, simply leave it in the warm oven a little longer.

Easiest Yogurt

Sprinkle one package gelatin over 2 cups cold water.

Into a 2-quart measure pour 4 cups cold water. Add 3 cups dried skim milk. Stir. Add 1 (13-ounce) can skim evaporated milk. Add 3 heaping tablespoons yogurt (use a brand that has live culture, such as Dannon). Add 4 teaspoons vanilla. Mix.

To softened gelatin, add boiling water to make ¾ cup. Add 1 tablespoon sugar. Dissolve.

Mix all ingredients together. Add water, if needed, to make 2 quarts.

Preheat oven to 275 degrees. Turn off.

Pour yogurt into small containers. Place containers on tray or cookie sheet. Cover with clean cloth. Place in oven. Let set 8 hours.

Refrigerate with lids. Each cup yogurt has approximately 138 calories. If skim milk is replaced with whole milk, calorie count is higher.

For future batches, use yogurt for a starter, until the batches become too sour; then purchase new starter. If using gas oven with pilot light, do not need to preheat oven.

Kid's Korner

Our Wonderful Cat

Two years ago my mother, sister, and I were walking home from Kutztown airport when we came across a cat who was looking for water in a drain pipe. She came up to me and she rubbed between my legs. My dad and my brother hate cats and Patty and Mom are allergic to cats, but my mom did not care because the cat could live outdoors. Mom picked her up and took her home.

We named her Pussy Willow. When we found her she had a bone sticking out, we took her to the vet and she said it was a calico and that all calicos are female. We found out that she had worms so we got her wormed. They also cut off her bone. After we got her back, she had a stubby tail.

Pussy Willow is a cute cat. She has sharp claws so she can kill. She is playful and loves to play with our dog, Belle. She is white with black and brown spots. She has green eyes and loves to spy. One time I was walking home from my piano lesson and she jumped out in front of me. I got scared half to death.

She is so cuddly and she loves to sleep on my electric blanket in the morning when it is cooling off.

Pussy Willow is allowed in the house a little bit but my brother gets mad and threatens to kill her, but I know he loves her.

My dad says he hates her too, but I know he just says that because one time I saw her up on his chair while he was watching the news and he was holding and petting the cat. That made me feel good inside.

Before we had a lot of mice in our attic, but when we got Pussy Willow, she got rid of them. She is a wonderful cat.

Dear Friends,

I am writing to you about what is happening on my farm. My name is Mary Ellen Seraydian, and I am eleven years old. I live on a 114-acre dairy farm in Taneytown, Maryland. We just started shipping milk about a month ago. We only have five cows now but we are slowly building up the herd. My dad gets up at 3:00 in the morning and milks the cows before he goest to work. He returns home again at 4:00 in the evening and milks again. I always feed the cows and give them hay. My sister Erin and I bed the cows before my dad puts them back into the loafing shed.

I am a member of the Progressive Clovers 4-H Club. I have been in the club for three years. On our farm we grow wheat, corn, soybeans, barley and oats. We also bale wheat straw, timothy hay and orchard grass.

Along with milk cows we own beef cows, pigs, chickens, ducks, cats and my dog Pork Chop. Pork Chop helps my dad and I move the cows whenever they need to be moved.

Sincerely,
Mary Ellen Seraydian

Hi!

My name is Andrew Sadler. We have a pet dog and cats. And we have about 1,400 pigs and 200 sheep. And, of course, we have 2 lambs we have to give bottles. We have three turkeys and three peacocks and three ducks. I have a pony. School is almost over for this term and I can hardly wait. And right now we are playing baseball at school! I usually have homework which I don't like at all. Every morning before I go to school, I have to feed the turkeys, ducks, and peacocks. I am 10 years-old, for my birthday I got another bicycle. I have two brothers and 1 sister. She is the oldest. Nancy, 23; Pearl, 22; James, 19, he is going on 20 on April 16. My parents are Marlin and Grace Sadler.

Goodbye,
Andrew Sadler, Myerstown

Hi!

My name is Loren Leid Brubaker. I am in grade four. I am 10 years old. My birthday is December 17, 1978. I have one sister and three brothers: Rosanna, 8; Vernon, 5; Luke Wayne, 3; Delton, 10 months.

I go to Bridgeville School. We have 39 pupils. We are playing baseball. We are going to have a contest on April 14. It is to see who can make the nicest things out of paper, cardboard, wood, sewing and baking. Our parents may not help us except to tell us how to do it.

I have a pet dog. His name is Prince. I love to play with him. We have 31 cows. I love to ride our toy wagon around the barn and give milk to the calves. In the summer I help my dad work around the farm.

My parents' names are Luke and Anna Brubaker. We live near Goodville.

Hello, My name is Erica Whistler. I have one brother, James Whistler. I am going to get a baby brother or sister due in September. I am eight years old and I am in the second grade. My brother is six years-old and he is in the morning kindergarten.

I live on a farm with 100 black Angus. Our dad and grandpa butcher them. Once we saw the skins. We also have four cats and one dog. Our grandma reads "Kids Korner" to us every week and we like it a lot. We have a Nintendo game set and my brother plays the most. One Saturday I went down the stairs and there he was playing a game borrowed from our friend Rod. The name of that game is Kid Icarus.

"Kids Korner" is fun. The stories are cute and some of the stories are funny. This story was written by Erica Whistler of Harrisburg.

Dear Readers,

My name is Gertie Beiler. I have four brothers and four sisters. They are nine of us: Katie, 16; John, 15; Moses, 13; Gertie, 11; Elizabeth, 10; Amos, 8; Linda, 5; Lloyd, 3; and Baby Fannie, 6 months.

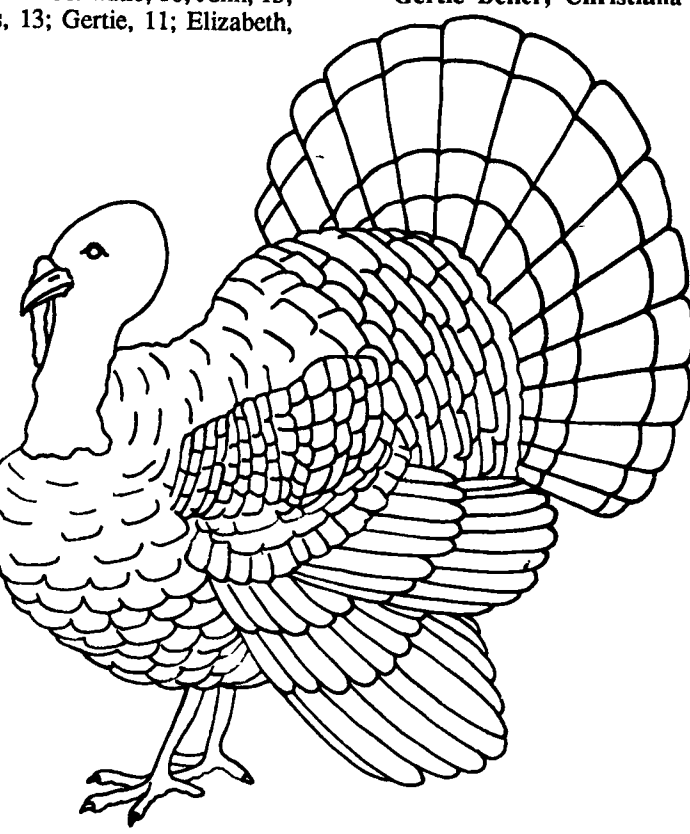
I have four classmates: Amos and Alvin Beiler, twins; and Hannah Zook and Lydia Stoltzfus.

We have Holstein cows. We have 10 horses and a lot of heifers. We have one dog named Joy and we have several cats. Our dog once had little puppies, but we shot them because they were not the best kind of dogs.

We planted peas, onions, beets, carrots and corn. Now we are eagerly waiting for them to grow so we can eat them.

I hate to mow lawn, but I like to do it to please Mom!

Goodbye,
Gertie Beiler, Christiana



TURKEYS HAVE MANY COLORS.

Dino And Saur

My dad got me two lizards on Halloween last year. The minute I saw them I named them Dino and Saur, because they reminded me of dinosaurs. Their tongues and tails are very long. Their tails are about two inches long. It's hard for the cat to see them because their green is so that they can hide in the grass and brown so they can hide on the wood. Even their eyes are camouflaged brown. But sometimes their white tummy gives them away. I like to touch them because they are scaly. They jump on top of the cage. Sometimes they fight but most of the time they don't. I'm glad my dad got Dino and Saur.

Plan For A Flowerful Summer

BY LOU ANN GOOD

EPHRATA — Spring has arrived, inspiring gardeners to till the soil and beautify their yards.

What's new and what's hot in the horticulture line? Lots. But gardeners are a diverse group of people. For every loved plant, there is one equally scorned.

In addition gardeners' tastes over the years have changed. These changes become evident as trends in gardening. The National Garden Bureau observes the following trends.

•Since 1983, flowers grown from seed have been increasing in popularity.

•Favorite flower colors have changed from red and scarlet to cooler pastel colors such as coral, salmon and lilac.

•The wave of interest in low-maintenance perennials and wildflowers continues to build.

•Vegetable gardeners are looking for more colorful yields. Green peppers are now red, golden, yellow, and chocolate.

•Taste is increasingly important to vegetable gardeners. Sweet, bitterfree, buttery, and delicate are used to describe flavor, rather than mild.

•Garden design is emerging as a national interest.

•Gardeners are motivated to create beauty with plants for their outdoor living space.

Select the right spot

Inspired by photographs in home and gardening magazines, many people spend money lavishly to buy trees, grass, shrubs and flowers. Unfortunately, they often select plants unsuitable to conditions in their yards.

One of the most common errors is planting sun-loving plants in shady areas.

Think twice about planting flowers where the sun never shines. According to the Professional Plant Growers Association, a North American trade organization of commercial growers, few plants will flower in constant shade. However, there are many varieties that will do well with four hours or less of direct sun daily or in the light shade of trees with small leaves and an open, airy habit. Morning sun with afternoon shade is ideal.

Coleus is valued for the bright, colorful, patterned foliage rather than its small, insignificant flowers. This makes it ideal for locations too shady for blooms.

Grass does not grow well in shade. Alternate ground covers include 25 to 30 varieties of English ivy, liriope and pachysandra.

Areas with both sun and shade, mix English ivy and vinca minor, a vine-like groundcover with small shiny dark green leaves and blue spring flowers. Vinca prefers some sun, while the ivy does well in the shade. Textures are different, the color of leaves is similar and blends nicely.

Flowers that prefer shady yards are impatiens, lobelia and begonias. Shrubs that do well in shady yards include holly, yew, mahonia osmanthus, a fruit-bearing shrub that resembles holly. Hemlocks also thrive in low light conditions. As do hydrangea, andromeda and mountain laurel.

Although forsythia, azaleas and rhododenderons will tolerate shade, they prefer full sun.

Roses must have full sun to do well. If you plant them in shady areas, they won't flower as well and they'll be more susceptible to disease. Marigolds, petunias, dahlias, cosmos, cornflowers and numerous others require full sun to flourish.

There are many reputable mail-order services from which to order plants and seeds, but Bruce Hellerick, Lancaster Extension horticulture agent, encourages buying locally. "If you have questions or need help with problems, local greenhouse personnel are trained to assist you."

Don't overlook the valuable information that can be obtained through your local extension office. They have valuable information on soils, plants, shrubs, trees, horticulture diseases and plant varieties to assist your every need.

Check with your local extension office for a listing of plants that are categorized for growing in light or full shade, porch and window boxes, rock gardens, fragrance, cut flowers, and other uses.

Sources and catalogues available from Harris® Seeds, 961 Lyell Ave., Rochester, NY 14606; Burpee® 300 Park Ave., Warminister, PA 18974 and Penn State Cooperative Extension.

New Varieties

New flower varieties are added annually to the market. One seed catalogue offers 134 new flower varieties.

Some you may want to check out include Coreopsis, an early sunrise, golden yellow, which is the winner of both the All-American gold medal and gold medal of Fleuroselect in Europe.

New varieties are offered after months of trials, breeding, and selection. Researchers look continually for better-tasting, higher yielding vegetables and more brightly colored, disease-resistant flowers.

The bush snapper snap pea is a compact plant that can be grown without support, saving space in the garden. The pods can be eaten whole and raw when young, or, when mature, snapped for the green peas.

Ole Tomato by Harris Seeds

Crisp yellow, golden, orange or apricot blooms are yours when you add calendula to the garden.

double feature

LORSBAN* 15G offers a double feature — rootworm and cutworm control.

Rootworm and cutworm can present a double [illegible] show in your corn fields. It used to be you had to sacrifice control of one to get the other.

But, LORSBAN* 15G granular insecticide gives you the double feature control you need — unsurpassed control of both rootworm and cutworm. LORSBAN 15G is not a restricted use product[1]. When used according to label recommendations, there is a minimal hazard to human and animal health or the environment.

This season, don't miss this double feature: ROOTWORM TERMINATOR and CUTWORM CRUNCHER. See your chemical dealer for LORSBAN 15G or call 1-800-[illegible] for more information.

Regardless of the insecticide you choose, ALWAYS READ THE LABEL BEFORE USE AND ALWAYS CAREFULLY FOLLOW ALL LABEL DIRECTIONS AND PRECAUTIONS for safe use.

DOW*

*Trademark of The Dow Chemical Company

produces big yields of firm, meaty tomatoes, ideal for fresh use at your table or for canning. It has foliage cover and the famous flavor of many Harris hybrids.

The Good'N Early Hybrid VFT tomato is a multiple disease-resistant variety, an important feature for the home gardener who uses the same plot every year. Bears a prolific crop of 7-ounce fruits in 62 days, and continues producing through the summer. Tomatoes are excellent quality with very small blossom-end scars.

The snowdrift marigold is the result of 30 years of white marigold research by Burpee. This new introduction is larger flowered than its predeccessors, and can be used both as a bedding plant and for cut flowers. The 3½ -inch flowers bloom from mid June until September.

The Madness series petunia combines the great size of the grandifloras with the prolific bloom and weather tolerance of the multifloras. These petunias bloom densely and bounce back rapidly even after a heavy rain. Available in coral, pink, plum, white, lavender, and salmon red.

PLANTING PROCEDURE

Before replanting your greenhouse plants, water them well and keep them in the shade. If possible, plant early or late in the day or on a cloudy day so they won't dry out before their roots are well enough established to transport water effectively.

Remove each plant from its container, root ball intact, keeping as much of the soil mix around the roots as possible. Either gently squeeze and push up on flexible plastic containers, or tip and tap pots to loosen each root ball. Individual peat pots can be planted pot and all.

Plant deeply enough so the top of the root ball is at the soil line. Break up and cover the top edges of peat pots, so they won't dry out and act as wicks, drawing water away from the roots.

Always water plants thoroughly after planting. Thereafter, deep infrequent waterings are better than frequent sprinkles, to encourage deep root growth. Gauge watering frequency according to rainfall. When your lawn needs watering, chances are your flower beds do also.

Adding 2 to 3 inches of mulch will discourage weeds and conserve moisture while adding a decorative touch. The best mulches are organic materials such as bark chips, pine needles, shredded leaves or peat moss. Take care not to pile mulch against plant stems.

After planting, you may want to give your flowers a dose of "starter" fertilizer, such as 10-52-17, which is high in phosphorus to help give roots a good start. Once or twice during the growing season, another dose of the same 5-10-5 or 10-10-10 fertilizer you used to prepare your beds will keep your shady show-offs going strong.

For sunny spots, let the sun do its job. All you need to add is water. Deep infrequent waterings are better than frequent sprinkles, since the former encourages deep root growth. Gauge watering frequency according to rainfall.

Educational resource gardens such as National Arboretum, Dumbarton Oaks, Brookside Gardens, Longwood Gardens label plants that are available in commercial garden centers, so walk through with a pad and pencil and take notes.

Fischer ivy geraniums flower prolifically.

Establishing lawns

The best time to seed lawns is in late August to early October. March is second best. April and May seedings lead to weed competition, particularly crabgrass. Young turf exposed to summer heat is more susceptible to disease and drought.

If you seed in the spring, apply a pre-emergence herbicide such as Siduron and use a turf-type tall fescue seed such as Adventure, Finelawn I, Houndog, Jaugar, Mustang, Olympic, Rebell, Apache, Arid, Bonanza or Falcon. The seeding rate is 5 to eight pounds mixture per 1,000 square feet.

Also reduce soil acidity with lime as recommended by a soil test. Fertilize at the proper time with the right amount.

When irrigating, apply water when turf begins to wilt. Water deeply by wetting the soil to a four to six inch depth. Deep watering encourages deep rooting.

For salads, sauces or soups, nothing beats the tomato.

Where tall, upright flowers are needed in midsummer, balloon flower is an excellent choice.

hillsboro

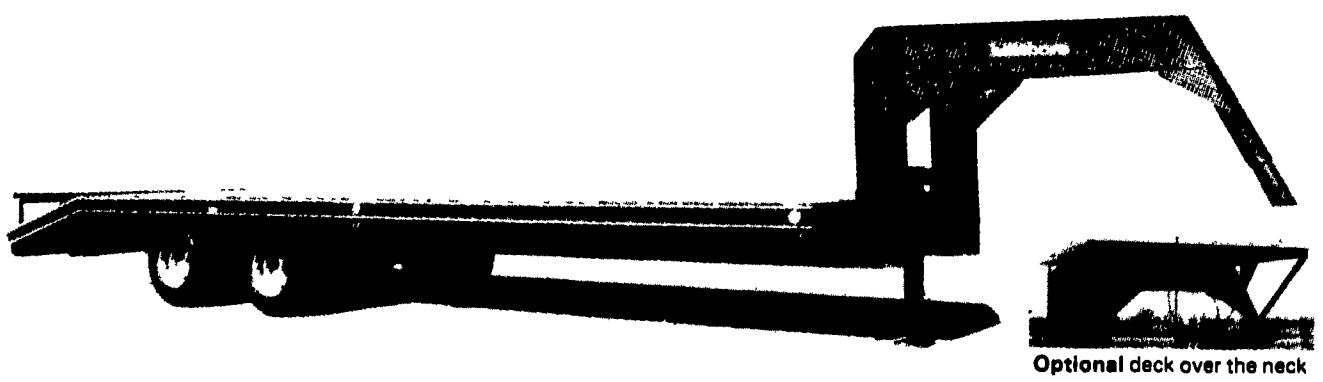
with flip-up beaver tail

Compare our quality and price!



Optional deck over the neck is 7½' x 8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles; the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck.

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment. Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads.

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flatbed value.

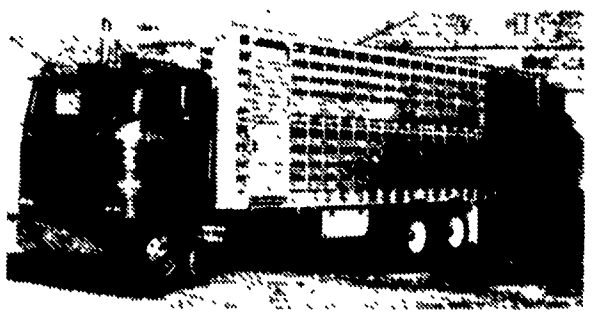
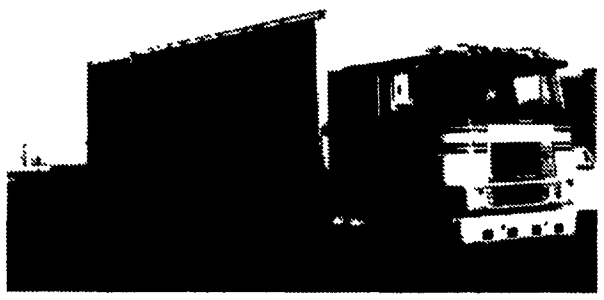
An Eby grain body is surprisingly affordable and built for the long haul.

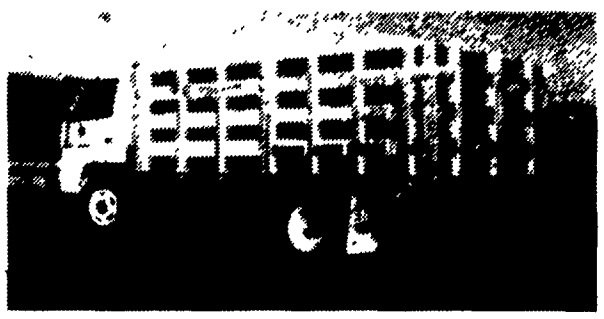


Reliable Eby livestock bodies are now aerodynamically designed.

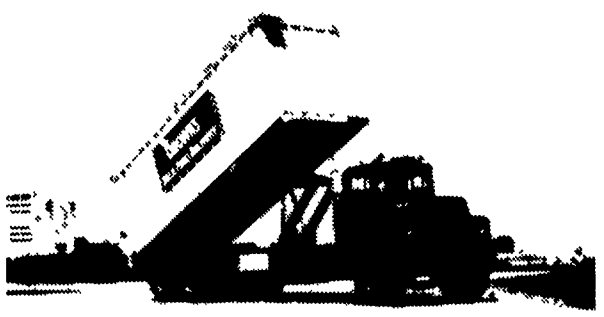
Eby's bolt-on extends the usefulness of your pickup for minimal investment.



A chicken body built to keep your birds dry and protected.



Eby stake body is the right choice for farm or commercial use.



Consider an Eby bulk body for reliability and ease of use.

Aluminum Bodies for the Agri-Industry

Back in 1938, when Menno Eby Sr. began making wagons and cattle trucks, he was determined to give farmers strong, wooden truck bodies at a competitive price.

Some things change. Others stay the same.

Today, M. H. Eby, Inc. produces a wide variety of sturdy and reliable truck bodies for agri-business. Everything from livestock bodies through stake bodies to grain and bulk bodies. All at competitive prices.

But now every Eby body is all-aluminum. Consider some of the advantages you get over traditional wood and steel construction:

- As much as 50% lighter — allows for increased payloads.
- It will never rust through or rot.
- No need to paint.
- Overall maintenance costs are greatly reduced.
- Just an occasional power washing keeps aluminum bodies looking new for years.
- They have much better resale value.

What's more, you can always tell Eby what you want on your body. Everything we make is custom-built. A long list of options available for every body style allows you to design the body you need for your operation.

Give us a call, or write, to find out more about the lightweight alternative.

Booklet Offered On Growing Grain Sorghum

NEWARK, Del. — Location, location, location is the battle cry of realtors when asked about the most important feature of a property.

Rotation, rotation, rotation is the battle cry of Dr. Richard Taylor, University of Delaware Extension agronomics crop specialist, when asked about the most important practice in growing grain sorghum on the Delmarva peninsula.

Grain sorghum is a relatively new crop on the peninsula, and with a promise from the poultry industry to use it as feed, many of Delmarva's agronomic farmers have chosen to plant this crop, which grows readily in the light, sandy soils of the peninsula and appears to be more drought-tolerant than either corn or soybeans.

Taylor says there are three situations where farmers may want to consider growing sorghum:

•When a farmer has field with a history of unreliable dryland corn yields, usually on droughty soil.

•When a farmer has grown continuous soybeans on droughty soil and is looking for a good rotation.

•When a farmer is experiencing reduced soybean yields because of soybean cyst nematodes or other soybean disease problems.

"Crop rotation helps to insure optimal performance of sorghum," says Taylor. "By rotating sorghum and soybeans, a farmer can end up with the best of both worlds."

Taylor says there is a definite market for grain sorghum, primarily to the poultry industry, or for on-farm use as a livestock feed, or sold to other livestock producers.

"Like any crop, sorghum should not be grown continuously," said Taylor. "Other than for off-type sorghums, this crop is relatively pest-free now. We'd rather not adopt practices that would lead to the buildup of sorghum pests and diseases in the area.

"Rotating sorghum with soybeans allows a grower the opportunity to control potential weed problems including the weedy sorghums such as Johnsongrass and shattercane," Taylor explains. "By using appropriate pre-emergence and postemergence herbicide programs during the soybean crop, the weedy sorghums can be controlled."

Taylor says that although sorghum is relatively easy to grow, it is susceptible to bird damage, especially during its "soft-dough" stage, and should not be grown in areas susceptible to heavy bird feeding.

The University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension have published a sorghum production manual that discusses production considerations indepth. Also available are three bulletins on variety trial results for sorghum, soybeans, and corn. These publications are available free-of-charge to Delaware residents at any county Extension office. The publications also are available by mail for $2 each to cover postage and handling.

Rough & Tumble Museum To Restore Lancaster Barn

KINZERS (Lancaster) — Rough and Tumble Museum, located along Route 30 at Kinzers, PA, has long been noted as the place where folks restore old steam and gas machinery and demonstrate it on show days. Recently Rough and Tumble committed itself to the largest restoration project in its 40-year history; the dismantling, moving and rebuilding of a Lancaster County barn built the same year the Union Pacific Railroad was completed, 1869.

Some important details already have been addressed. Blueprints for the reconstruction have been submitted to the Department of Labor and Industry and have been accepted by them. Barn placement, grading and the excavation work needed at the museum's 33-acre site are still on paper, and the barn is still standing where it was built 120 years ago along the Fruitville Pike north of Lancaster. It can't remain there long, however, for instead of overlooking fertile fields the barn now stands majestically at the edge of a development of attractive single-family homes. The broad street, lined with new houses, stops suddenly a few hundred feet from the front of the barn; the street has been planned for completion later this year. The barn must go.

When the barn was built back in 1869, right after the Civil War, it was on the 180-acre farm of Benjamin B. Groff, on the east side of what was then the Fruitville Toll Road and directly across from the old log house which served as a toll gate. The 63x100-feet barn was located in the middle of the farm, and was built of western timbers hauled in by rail and then transported to the building site by horse power. No other form ot power had reached Lancaster County at that time.

About 20 years after the Groff barn was built the farm was divided into two farms and the portion with the new barn along the road was bought by Pete Graybill, a horse trader who wanted to be located along the main highway. Graybill built a two-story brick house next to the barn. The house still stands at that site.

Because of the barn's large size, now on a smaller farm, there was never a need for additions or renovations. The barn was well maintained and, therefore, stands tall and stately among new 1980s houses.

The barn, a gift to Rough and Tumble museum from Robert and Esther Lefever, will not have the same date as those that have been cut down with a chain saw and sliced into 1-inch boards used to produce reproduction antique furniture. Instead, relocated on Rough and Tumble grounds, the barn will become a display area for genuine antiques such as the farm equipment and other barn-related items that Rough and Tumble has been acquiring during its 40-year history.

Instead of hanging from the rafters, or being buried behind other items packed in too tightly to be seen, these items can be placed in their proper environment for this and future generations to see, enjoy, and learn from.

The projected time-table calls for the barn to be dismantled by July and transported to Rough and Tumble's grounds. It is planned to have the new concrete foundation and stone facing work done by this fall, with the barn itself to be erected in the spring of 1990. Turning the completed barn into a museum of agricultural heritage is expected to be a two-year project, with completion in 1991.

As has been true of Rough and Tumble's other projects, much of the work involved with this hist ic preservation project will be v unteered. A member has alre offered to do the necessary gr ing and excavation as his con bution to the project, and other kind donations have already b offered. A new roof, electric wo a cistern, heat in one portion year-round use, and other nece ties mean a "barn fund" is need however.

Rough and Tumble museum developing a community awa ness program in conjunction this barn's move, in the hopes others may want to be a part this project of preservation of agricultural heritage. Contri tions may be made to: Rough Tumble's Barn Committee, Box 9, Kinzers, PA 17535. Maryland Vegetable Acreages Up, Yields Down

ANNAPOLIS, MD. — Maryland farmers had a big vegetable patch in 1988: some 47,225 acres, which were harvested for a total production of almost 203,000 tons of good eating things ranging from asparagus to zucchini.

However, the drought of 1988 made it tough on the state's vegetable growers because they lost 1,209 acres of planted crops and saw total production of vegetables slip by almost 20,000 tons from the year before.

Per acre yields for most vegetables such as sweet corn, tomatoes, watermelons, snap beans, canteloupes, beets, cabbage, peas, limas, peppers, strawberries and turnips declined from 1987. Increased per acre yields were recorded for cucumbers, greens, kale, pumpkins, and squash.

The majority of vegetable acreage grown in 1988 was for fresh market vegetables: 29,350, while acreage for processing (canned and frozen) vegetables was 18,175. Plantings for 1988 were up by 17 percent for processing vegetables and 4 percent for fresh market vegetables.

According to Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service which released the vegetable production figures, the six leading vegetable crops by acreage were: Sweet corn - 15,885, tomatoes - 5,200, watermelons - 4,730, cucumbers - 3,000, canteloupes - 2,800 and snap beans - 1,905.

To illustrate the impact of drought on vegetable crops, the per acre yield for processing tomatoes was listed at nine tons per acre for 1988 while in 1987, also a drought year, the average tonnage per acre for processing tomatoes grown in Maryland was 13.19 tons.

Corn Smut And Edible Flowers For Gourmet Dining

BY LOU ANN GOOD

EPHRATA —"How would you like to sit down to a dinner of corn smut and flowers?

If you turn up your nose, well...you're evidently not an adventurous eater. These trendy foods are popping up in the most pretigious restaurants.

Of course, on the plate, it is not called corn smut. Instead it's named maize mushrooms or cuitlacoche or Mexican truffle.

Despite the impressive name, it remains a corn fungus that farmers abhor. It is most prevalent after corn has been injured by hail, insects and detasseling.

According to Bruce Hellerick, county extension horticulture agent, a New York restaurant wants farmers who will sell corn smut to them.

Although eating corn smut is fairly new in the U.S., Mexicans have been eating it for centuries as a complement to vegetables, a base for sauces, a filling for meat and fish and as soup.

Restaurants who carry edible flowers and corn smut are not the average hamburger and fries place. Instead they are found in upscale groumet type restaurants that view food as an "exciting" or as an "edible experience."

Hellerick, who recently attending a workshop featuring edible flowers, said that he is not promoting either the eating or the growing of edible flowers and corn smut, but he has the "idea that a few farmers may move into the market on a small scale."

Squash blossoms, pansies, Johnny Jump-ups, roses, petunias, impatiens, day lilies and nasturtiums are only a few of the common varieties used as edible flowers. Growers must make sure the flowers are perfect, insect and disease free with no pesticides applied, and fresh.

Growers average 50 cents to one dollar per flower.

"But," Hellerick cautions, "you must know what you are picking. Eating the wrong flower such as a daffodil can kill you."

During the Victorian era, candied violets and rose pedals were eaten. A resurgent interest in edible flower has surfaced in the last three years. Flowers are only mimimal nutritious. Generally they are used more as an edible garnish than as a complete dish. Restaurants consider flowers a drawing card appealing to those who find it exciting to try unusual dishes.

At present, growers sell directly to restaurants. If someone is interested in growing flowers for food, they must locate their markets first.

Hellerich suggests striking up a friendship with a chef and starting out on a small scale. "Don't promise more than you can deliver and supply through the entire season."

Many farmers wouldn't want to be bothered with the work involved because it is labor intensive and it does require building a relationship with a chef.

But for the farmer who enjoys public relations and the unusual, growing edible flowers may be a feastible sideline.

A few area farmers plan to supply a New York restaurant with corn smut. Standards have been developed for commercial use. The cob must have the fungus growing on the top half of the corn and the entire cob is wrapped tightly in waxed paper. It must have a fleshy, greenish to silvery white skin covering the gall, if a black color has developed the product is too old for shipping. Corn smut cobs are fragile and if handled roughly will deteriorate rapidly.

Bruce Hellerick, Lancaster extension horticulturist, reviews information about the latest gourmet foods: corn smut and edible flowers.

Hellerick suggests if a Lancaster County farmer does have a problem with the fungus (must be sweet corn not field corn), they can contact him and he will put them on a list of possible suppliers.

For those who are adventurous, try this recipe for corn smut and pumpking blossoms.

SOUFFLE OF CUITLACOCHE

½ pound of pumpkin or squash blossoms, stems and stringy sepals removed.

½ pound Maize mushrooms

3 tablespoons safflower oil

1 onion, finely chopped

3 cloves garlic, chopped

2 small chile poblanos, roasted, peeled and minced

2 sprigs epazote, stems removed and minced

Salt to taste

Remove the mushroom from the cob and chop ti roughly and set aside with the pumpkin blossoms. Heat the oil and saute onion and garlic until transparent. Add the mushrooms and the blossoms with the chiles, epazote and salt. Let simmer over medium heat until the liquid of the mushrooms and the blossoms have evaporated. Cover and store the mixture for one hour in the refrigerator and add more seasonings if necessary.

Pre-Designed Gardens

To remove some of the intimidating aspects of planning a garden and to help gardeners avoid some common gardening mistakes, garden catalogues offer collections of designed gardens grown from seed or from plants. Each package contains all necessary seeds or plants, plant markers, and a plan with easy-to-follow instructions for creating a complete garden. They feature flower or vegetable varieties that bloom quickly or mature early. If you have more money than time or if you'd like instant success, you may want to purchase a predesigned garden.

To give you an idea of what is available, a listing of Burpee® kits follows:

•Three crescent flower gardens in blue, pink and blue and yellow to bring color to border areas. Some of the flowers include aster, salvia, alyssum, zinnias, cosmos and others.

By Michelle S. Rodgers

Berks Extension Home Economist

It's warming up and many of us are returning to the great outdoors. For some, it is the great beckoning of lawn and garden activities that call us to venture outside and work.

My mother always had a saying that the yard had to be raked and cleared of winter debris by Easter so that the Easter bunny would come. Well, this year that meant getting an early start.

One other job that often comes with the spring and summer outdoor work is applying pesticides. And whether you are just "dusting the garden" using some slightly toxic pesticides such as Captan or Sevin or "spraying the farm fields" using some more highly concentrated and toxic pesticides such as Paraquat or Furadan, you need to be aware of taking precautions for you and your family members.

Wearing the proper type of clothing while applying pesticides can help prevent accidental poisoning to home users. You may not be aware that poisoning most often results from pesticides entering the body through the skin rather than through the lungs or digestive tract. Symptoms of poisoning may range from headaches and vomiting to unconsciousness and death. You can minimize the dangers of pesticide exposure by wearing clothing that covers and protects your body, even when you are just "dusting" the garden.

Select clothing that is made of tightly woven material, or as an alternative, durable disposable coveralls made of a non-woven material. Avoid wearing a t-shirt or short-sleeved shirt, shorts or cloth shoes while applying pesticides. Select unlined waterproof gloves that reach at least halfway to the elbow. Do not use the usual cotton gardening gloves as they will absorb the pesticides.

Another precaution; avoid wearing a wrist watch with a leather band or any type of jewelry made of leather. The reason is that once leather has been contaminated, it cannot be decontaminated.

You might consider having one set of clothing to use only while applying pesticides. If possible, remove contaminated clothing outdoors or in an entry. If a granular pesticide has been used, shake clothing outdoors and empty pockets and cuffs.

Even if you are not responsible for the pesticide application at your home, you may be in charge of laundering the clothing. The laundering of pesticide contaminated clothing raises many questions. What is the best method? What water temperature should be used? What about contamination of the rest of the family laundry?

The pesticide container label is a guide for learning the toxicity of the chemical. These may vary from words of Caution (slightly toxic) to Warning (moderately toxic) to Danger Poison (highly toxic concentrated).

Regardless of the level of toxicity, wash contaminated clothing separately from the family wash so that it is not transferred to other clothing.

Pre-rinse contaminated clothing in the washing machine to help remove pesticide particles from the fabric. Clothing worn while using slightly toxic pesticide may be effectively laundered in one machine washing. It is strongly recommended that at least three washing be used on clothing contaminated with more toxic pesticides. Wear rubber gloves when handling contaminated clothing to prevent pesticide absorption into your body.

The hotter the water temperature, the better. Washing in hot water (120 F to 140 F) removes more pesticide than cool water temperatures. Research has shown that heavy duty liquid detergents are more effective than other detergents in removing more concentrated pesticides. Wash only one or two garments in a single load using a full water level to allow the water to thoroughly flush the fabric. And it is better to wash contaminated clothing immediately rather than allowing them to "set" on the fabric.

It is a good idea to rinse the washing machine after laundering pesticide contaminated clothing by running a wash cycle without clothing in the machine. Also, line drying is recommended to eliminate the possibility of residues collecting in the dryer, although heat from an automatic dryer can create additional chemical breakdown of pesticide residues.

This may sound like a lot of extra steps, but these procedures are just a few adjustments to your current methods that will help protect you and your family. And tell me, now that you have this information, why wouldn't you use it?

PREVENT REFRIGERATOR AND FREEZER ODORS

Today's refrigeration appliances boast many innovative features that help solve our food storage concerns. But one problem manufacturers cannot help solve is unpleasant food odor in the refrigerator or freezer.

There are several causes of refrigerator-freezer odor. Some of the more common ones are:

* Foods stored uncovered or improperly wrapped.
* Poor maintenance - spills not being wiped up right away.
* Foods left in the refrigerator too long.
* Power or mechanical failure that causes food spoilage.
* Cleaning agents leaving a strong chemical or fragrant odor.

The best way to deal with odors is to prevent them. Here are several ways you can avoid refrigerator-freezer odors.

* Discard leftovers, vegetables and dairy products that are beyond safe keeping.
* Promptly clean any spills.
* Clean the refrigerator once every two weeks, as needed. When cleaning, remember to take out all shelves and other removeable parts and wash them with warm soapy water. Wash the inside walls and floor of the appliance with a solution of two tablespoons of baking soda to one quart of warm water.
* Cover or wrap foods stored in the fresh food section of your refrigerator. Cold, dry air will cause food that is not covered to dry out while it gives off odors inside the refrigerator.
* Also, the drip pan must be cleaned. The drip pan is under the unit and is frequently forgotten because it is out of sight.

To cure existing appliance odor problems, I recommend:

* Washing your appliance with a baking soda solution.
* Activated charcoal can be obtained at your favorite drugstore. Spread the charcoal into shallow pans and place them on your refrigerator and freezer shelves.
* Pour dry baking soda in shallow pans and place them on your refrigerator and freezer shelves.
* An unusual but effective technique is to remove all food items, pack each shelf with newspaper and sprinkle the newspaper lightly with water. Allow the refrigerator to run for a few days, then replace the newspaper. This technique may take five to six days, but can eliminate strong odors.

Here are a few final tips. There are many commercial cleaning products on the market that merely mask odor and do not get rid of it; other products are hazardous to use around a food-storage appliance. Read product labels carefully to determine the best use. Also, never keep the doors closed when a refrigerator is not running. Allow enough air to circulate into the appliance to prevent odor, mold and mildew from building up.

With these basic maintenance techniques you should be able to keep your appliance in odor-free operation.

Sewing And Crafts For Profit

Sewing and craft oriented, home-based businesses include specialities like drapery and home furnishings, custom-sewing, clothing alteration, bridal wear, quilting, crafts, soft toys and many more.

Home-based businesses are on the increase. Individuals are deciding to stay home to work. Some of the reasons given are the increased flexibility of time schedules, the reduction of rent and transportation costs and being your own boss as well as doing something you enjoy.

This one-day seminar is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and will be held at the Lancaster County Farm and Home Center in Lancaster. It is scheduled for Monday, April 24 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Advanced registration by April 14, of $20 is required. This includes lunch and all materials.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As you read this article, my husband and I expect to be in Ireland. We've been planning this trip for several months. We got passports and plane reservations a few weeks ago.

I feared my garden might not be planted before I left but somehow it was managed. You see, I had a problem finding someone to rototill the soil. And, even now I think it might have to be done over again. But the sugar peas, lettuce, radishes, onions and lettuce have all been sown.

Probably I'll be telling you a lot about our trip in the next few weeks but today I'd like to reminisce about the World's Fair of 1939. I'm sure that many people over 50 have fond memories of this spectacular tribute to George Washington with its trademark of a perisphere and a trylon.

The New York Historical Society is exhibiting many photographs, cards and souvenirs to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the fair which, when it closed in 1940, had entertained 45 million people.

I was privileged to visit the fair not once but twice. It remains as one of my more pleasant memories. The first time was a bus tour with high school students. It was probably the first time that I had gone that far from home and had a chance to see a big city like New York. One scene stays in my mind and that was the very beautiful display of colored fountains that shot up and down over Fountain Lake in response to orchestra music. I'm surprised that I was allowed to be there alone at night.

Another time I visited the World's Fair with my grandfather, mother and sister. We traveled by train from Lancaster and admission to the fair was seventy-five cents. Some mementos that were in our home long afterwards were a pickle pin from Heinz 57 Varieties and a small, plastic perisphere and trylon. The musical horn on the small transportation carts were also a trademark of the fair. One thrilling experience of this long ago fair was the parachute jump. It brought my stomach up to where my heart should have been. Years later, when I vacationed in New York City, I discovered it had been moved to Coney Island.

Alfred State Celebrates National Ag Day

ALFRED, NY — Students at Alfred State College will be offering everything from a milking contest to the Ag Olympics this year as they observe National Agriculture Day.

Scheduled Wednesday, April 19, from 9:00 a.m. to late afternoon, the event is expected to attract even greater numbers than previous years because of the April date.

In the past, the college attempted to stay in step with the rest of the nation by observing Ag Day on or about the date in March that was designated for such a celebration. Because of the uncertainty of weather much of that month, however, officials decided to move to an April date.

"We should get a better break (from the weather) in April," a spokesperson said, explaining that many of the day's activities are held outdoors.

Among major events this year will be farm tours, hayrides (tractor drawn), sheep shearing, milking demonstration, milking contest, and a variety of exhibits both indoors and outdoors in the central dining hall area of campus.

The Ag Olympics are scheduled to start at 3:00 p.m. in the same outdoor area and again will feature students competing in such popular contests as cow chip tossing, egg toss, bale throwing, milk chug-a-lug, ice cream eating, and tug-of-war.

One of the day's highlights is the cow milking contest in which the school of agriculture dean, James Thompson, will be out to defend his title against all student challengers.

Another attraction will be the appearance of two dairy princesses who have accepted the students' invitation to participate in Ag Day.

Dispensing ice cream and other dairy products to the many youngsters from area schools who are expected here will be Marcie Emerson, an Alfred-Almond Centreal junior who reigns as 1989 Allegany County Dairy Princess, and Heidi Bossard, a junior at Canisteo Central, who is the 1989 Steuben County Dairy Princess and alternate New York State Dairy Princess.

Besides an ice cream treat, the youngsters and other visitors will view live animals and exhibits that feature ice cream and butter making, a cider press, farm machinery, and horticulture displays.

College students will have their evening meal served by faculty of the school of agriculture, who are arranging a farm-style dinner with a menu that promotes agriculture's role in good nutrition.

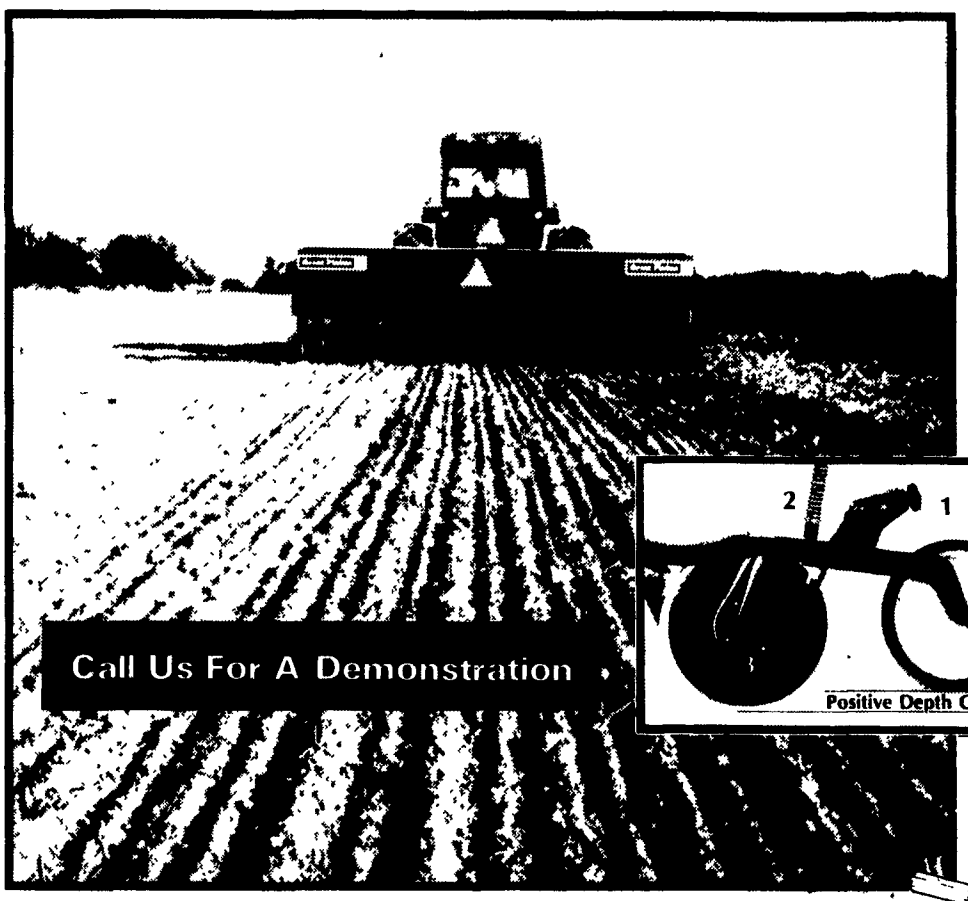
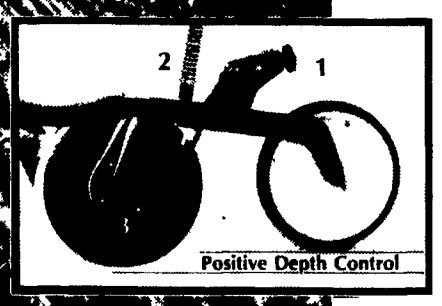
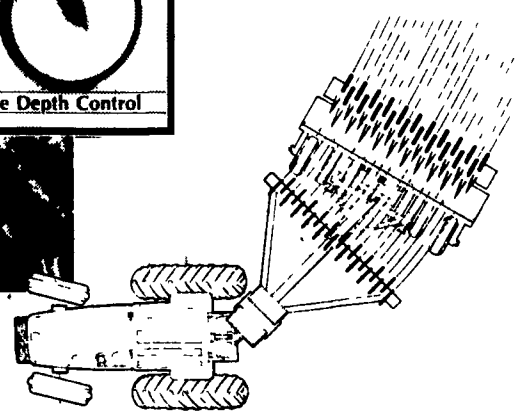
You Won't Find A Better No-Till Drill Than GREAT PLAINS





Great Plains Solid Stand® drills have the planting accuracy drilled soybeans need; (1) Depth-Gauging Press Wheels keep the opener from penetrating too deep; planting depth can be quickly changed with exclusive dial-a-depth adjustment system. (2) Double Down-Pressure Springs hold opener firmly in the soil — preventing the bouncing action which leaves seed scattered on top of the ground.

(3) Special Seed Chute places seed in the very bottom of the v-slot, rather than allowing slot to partially close prior to seed release.



THE NO-TILL HITCH THAT WORKS

Here's why:
A unique pivot between the coulter unit and the drill allows each disk opener to track exactly in the slot cut by the coulter in front — even while the unit is rounding a curve.

Excellent penetration is also achieved, thanks to a heavy-duty framework, calcium-fillable transport tires, and a special weight transfer design which applies some of the weight of the drill itself to the coulters. Should additional weight be needed, specially designed weight brackets are available which accept most tractor suitcase-style weights. In all, up to 400 lbs. of weight per coulter is possible — ensuring penetration even in the toughest ground.

Finally, all Combination Drill Hitches feature a quick hitch for attaching easily to 3-point drills. So you have the flexibility to no-till some acreage, then switch back to a conventional seeding method as conditions vary.

COMPARE PERFORMANCE! COMPARE PRICE!

YOU'LL BUY A Great Plains NO-TILL DRILL

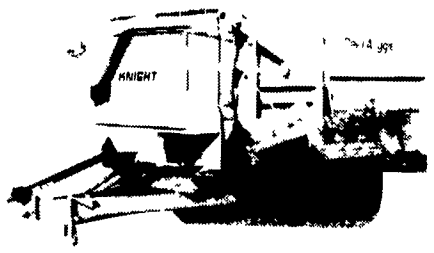
Reel Auggie

KNIGHT

2000 Series

A new concept in TMR Mixers



The Mixer/Blender/Feeder that handles your TMR ingredients including long stem hay. Pictured is the RA2250.

Reel Auggie Mixing Chamber

The reel turns slowly and gently lifts material into the two blending augers. The lower auger is notched and moves the material forward. The upper auger, which moves the material rearward, features replaceable knives which assist the blending of long baled hay or other tough roughage materials.

Advantages of the Reel Auggie Design

*Blending long hay, other roughages, and by-product materials.
*Reduced mixing time with lower horsepower requirements.
*Reduced material breakdown, fluffier material consistency and faster, more even unloading.
*Power chute optional in tow and truck mount applications.

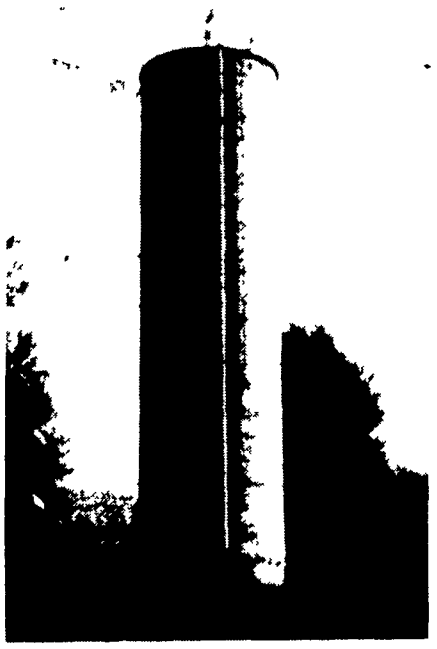
"Consider The Concrete Advantages"



The summer of 1988 will be remembered for the many hot, dry, days. These high temperatures damaged a lot of stored corn and forage in structures that have a thin wall and do not reflect heat. You can avoid this heat damage with a poured concrete SOLLENBERGER SILO.

FOR BOTTOM UNLOADING:
* LAIDIG 43 - Ideal unloader for high moisture ground ear corn or high moisture shelled corn.
* LAIDIG 98 or 198 - The bottom unloader for all forages.
* "LAIDIG GAVE BOTTOM UNLOADING A GOOD NAME."

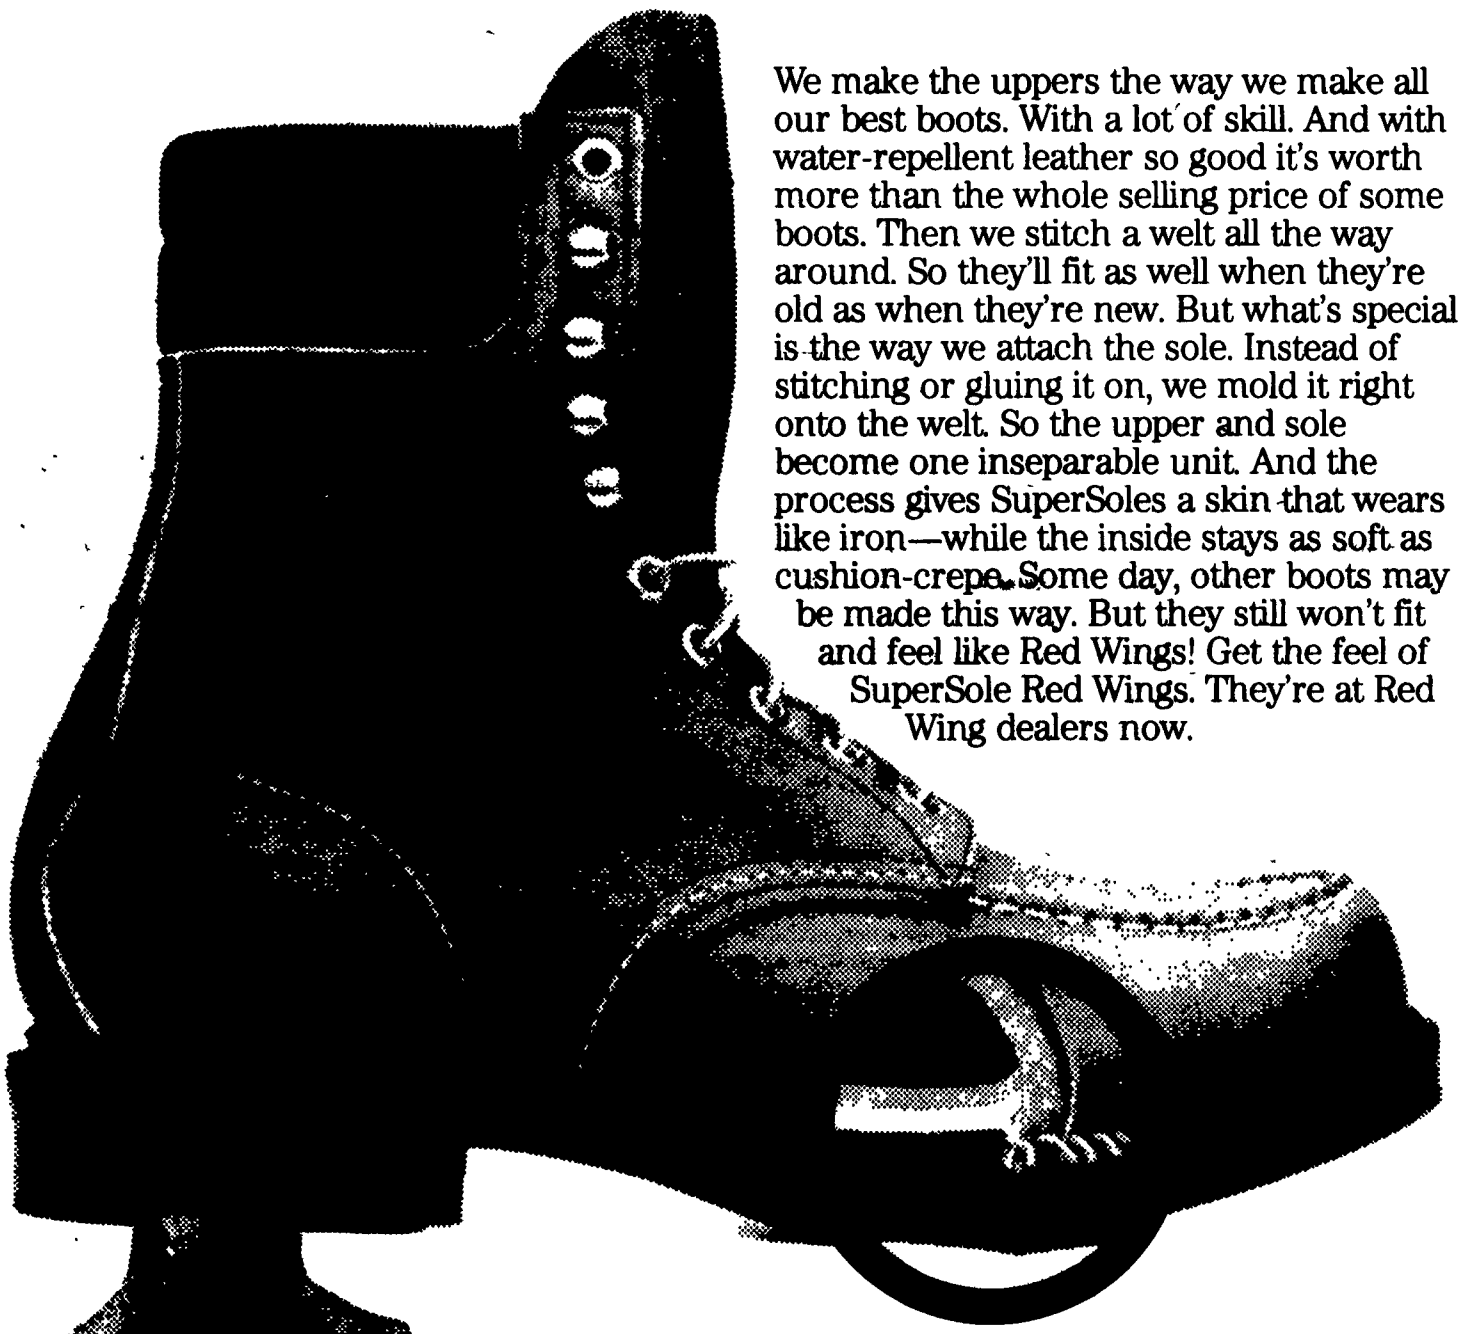
The boots nobody else can make.

SuperSole Red Wings—They'll last longer and feel better than any other boots you can buy.



We make the uppers the way we make all our best boots. With a lot of skill. And with water-repellent leather so good it's worth more than the whole selling price of some boots. Then we stitch a welt all the way around. So they'll fit as well when they're old as when they're new. But what's special is the way we attach the sole. Instead of stitching or gluing it on, we mold it right onto the welt. So the upper and sole become one inseparable unit. And the process gives SuperSoles a skin that wears like iron—while the inside stays as soft as cushion-crepe. Some day, other boots may be made this way. But they still won't fit and feel like Red Wings! Get the feel of SuperSole Red Wings. They're at Red Wing dealers now.

Available
In All Sizes
And Widths

The SuperSole Secret

is Red Wing's exclusive process that permanently molds the welted leather upper and the sole into a single, inseparable unit—and gives the sole its tough outer skin over a cushion-soft inside.

Lancaster County 4-H'ers Shine At Livestock-Judging Contest

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Lancaster Countians are good judges of animal flesh, and several county youth proved it to other Pennsylvanians at the 1989 Block and Bridle Spring Judging Contest. Emily Weaver of Ephrata won the beef and reasons classes in the collegiate-professional division and placed among the top five in the swine and sheep classes to be the overall winner in her division.

Weaver's brother, Fred, was a member of the Lancaster County 4-H "A" team, which was the overall winner in the junior advanced division. The team placed first in the beef, swine, and reasons classes, with sheep being their weak point. They placed fourth in the sheep class. The team also is composed of Greg Harnish and John Hess of Manheim and Doug Musser of Elizabethtown.

Harnish was high individual in the beef class, second high in the reasons class, and third high overall. Hess had four fewer points in the beef class to be second in that category. Musser was the second highest-scoring individual overall with a fifth place in beef, fourth place in reasons, third place in swine, and 12th place in sheep.

Cathy Shive, representing the York County 4-H "A" team, was the high overall individual in the junior advanced division with 400 points. She also had top honors in the reasons and sheep classes and second place in the swine class. Shive helped her team to third place in the overall standings. Coming in second overall was the York County "B" team.

Lebanon County made a strong showing with its younger teams, taking the top two spots in the overall team competition of the junior beginner division. The "A" team, composed of Daryl and Jeff Bomgardner, John Risser, and Alice Smith, won the sheep class and placed a close second to the "B" team in the swine class. The "B" team consisted of Brian Kreider, Jason Krawl, Mike Kleinfelter, and Dan Atkins.

Kleinfelter placed first in the sheep class for a second overall individual placing. Third by a hair in the overall standings was fellow Lebanon Countian, Jeff Bomgardner. Bomgardner also placed fifth in the sheep class. Jon Harnish, who competed as an individual rather than a team member, finished second in the swine class, with Risser following in fifth.

An Indiana County youth, Jeremy Cattau, was the overall winner of the collegiate-amateur division with a second-place win in the beef class and third-place wins in the swine and sheep classes.

Jan Waltz of Manheim, a Penn State senior and member of Lancaster County's 1984 state champion 4-H livestock judging team, served as chairman for the event. Weaver, a member of the county's 1987 state champion 4-H livestock team, will be chairman next year.

The livestock judging team from Alfred State College came home with several prizes from the Canadian Intercollegiate Judging Competition. Top individual awards were won by Matthew D. Harper of Mayville, N.Y. Harper was reserve champion in the agricultural quiz, combined horticulture, and sheep classes. Team members are, from left, seated: Michael L. Riley of Gettysburg, Pa., and Harper; standing: David A. Pinckney Jr. of Cayuga, N.Y., coach Lee LaRochelee of the college's Plant and Animal Science Department, and Richard J. Stang of Perrysburg.

Alfred State Livestock Judging Team Wins Awards

ALFRED, NY — Once again, the livestock judging team from Alfred State College took several awards at the recent Canadian Intercollegiate Judging Competition in Guelph, Ontario.

Alfred State was the sole United States entry, competing against 13 two- and four-year college teams from the provinces of Alberto, Ontario, and Quebec. The event was staged as a stockman's contest, with entrants required to judge crop classes as well as livestock classes.

Coached by Lee LaRochelle of the Plant and Animal Science Department faculty, the Alfred team included Matthew D. Harper of Mayville, N.Y.; Richard J. Stang of Perrysburg, N.Y.; David A. Pinckney Jr. of Cayuga, N.Y., and Michael L. Riley of Gettysburg, Pa.

Harper came home with the top individual awards for Alfred, winning reserve champion honors in three categories: agricultural quiz, combined horticulture classes, and sheep.

In addition, the 1987 Chautauqua Central School graduate placed first in soybean seed, first in sweet clover seed, second in potatoes, third in Simmental cattle, and fifth in Holsteins.

Pinckney placed third in light horses and seventh in meat judging, while Riley was third in corn silage and fifth in hay crops. Stang placed sixth in the sheep division.

As a team, Alfred finished second in Holsteins, third in Simmentals, fourth in Herefords, fifth in sheep, sixth in swine, and sixth in horses in the livestock division.

In addition, ASC placed fourth in soybean seed, fourth in corn silage, fourth in potatoes, seventh in apples, and eighth in sweet clover seed and hay crops.

The University of Guelph also provided judging demonstrations in poultry and meats, with opportunity for student participation. The Alfred State students also toured several Canadian farms.

A visit to United Breeders, Ltd. in Canada afforded students an opportunity to learn techniques in the management of a bull stud and the collection and freezing of semen, Professor LaRochelle reported.

Other stops for the students included the facility for Walkerbrae Holsteins, a premiere breeder in Ontario, and a thoroughbred horse facility at Hindmarsh Farm.

The three-day event concluded with an awards banquet hosted by students at the University of Guelph.

Ohio Man Assumes Simmental Chairmanship

BOZEMAN, MT — Gerald Williams of New Carlisle, Ohio, a member of the American Simmental Association Board of Trustees since 1985, has been elected chairman of the Board of Trustees. He succeeds Henry Fields of Claude, Texas, in the chairman's position.

Williams, a Simmental breeder since 1971, maintains a family-owned breeding operation. He's a former two-term president of the Ohio Simmental Association and is an active member of the National Cattleman's Association and the Ohio Farm Bureau. As an ASA trustee, he chaired two key committees: growth and development and policies and procedures. A strong supporter of ASA's innovative youth program, he also has served as a state association sale manager and newsletter editor.

Williams and his wife, Inge, are parents of two daughters, both of whom are involved actively in the family's Simmental operation.

Gerald Williams

During ASA's recent annual meeting and convention at Little Rock, Ark., Dave Nichols of Anita, Iowa, was elected to the position of vice chairman/chairman elect, while Breck Ellison Jr. of Knoxville, Tenn., was elected to the treasurer's post. The five-member executive committee includes Williams, Nichols, and Ellison along with Dr. Don Clanton of North Platte, Neb., and Johnny Poore of Barnesville, Ga.

Three newly elected trustees were seated during the convention. They are William Altenburg of Fort Collins, Colo., Nina Lundgren of Louden, Wash., and Dr. Brent Perry of Springer, Okla. In addition, Nichols was installed for a second three-year term.

Veal Industry Has Strong Impact On Dairy Industry

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — The veal industry in Pennsylvania and the United States has a strong economic impact of the dairy industry, according to Penn State researchers Dr. L.L. Wilson, professor of animal science, and Dr. A.J. Heinrichs, associate professor of dairy and animal science.

Veal calves return approximately $377 million in calf sales alone to U.S. dairy farmers. In addition, the 1.1 million milk-fed "fancy" veal calves consume approximately $220 million in milk and milk by-products each year. Approximately 82,000 tons of veal products are sold annually.

Wilson and Heinrichs say that since the veal industry helps decrease surplus milk products, many of which are not suitable for human consumption, it has a positive effect upon the U.S. dairy industry. The total income received by the dairy industry through the veal industry is approximately $597 million.

According to national figures from recent surveys and calculations conducted by the Beef Industry Council, veal contributes to the American diet as a unique, high-quality, low-fat product. Wilson says there are no figures available on the employment created by the veal industry.

Recently, animal rights groups and animal welfare groups have raised questions about traditional methods of raising milk-fed veal. Wislon describes animal rights activists as those who feel that animals should not be used in any manner for human benefit, regardless of the extent or degree of humane animal treatment in production situations. Animal welfare groups, however, allow the use of animals for the benefit of society, either as food or fiber products, as long as the animals are treated humanely, he says.

"I would say most of our veal producers are very concerned about the treatment of their animals. It's simply good animal health practice and good farm management to house and handle animals humanely," states Wilson.

"Consumers need high-quality, nutritious choices in their diets. We also have to be concerned about the employment provided by these industries. Many industries interact to provide more than one kind of food - the milk and veal industries are only one example," says Wilson.

Wool, Unshorn Lamb Incentive Payment Levels Announced

DENVER, CO — USDA recently announced the average 1988 marketing season wool price is $1.38 per pound. Calculations using this price determine incentive payment levels for shorn wool and unshorn lamb sold during 1988.

The wool support level for the 1988 marketing season, determined by USDA, is $1.78 per pound. Based on a formula to determine shorn wool payments, shorn wool will be paid at 29 percent. Utilizing the formula to determine unshorn lamb payments, the rate paid for unshorn lambs for the 1988 marketing year will be $1.60 per cwt.

The shorn wool incentive level for the 1987 marketing year was 97.4 percent and unshorn lamb $3.57 per cwt. The reason for the substantial difference between the 1988 and 1987 payment levels was the 50.5 percent increase in the weighted average price of wool. U.S. wool production in 1988 was estimated by USDA to be 89.2 million pounds grease, up 5.4 percent from 1987.

USDA also announced the mohair incentive level. Based on a $4.69 support level and an average price of $1.89 per pound, the incentive level on mohair will be 148.1 percent.

Payments will be processed through local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices and will be received by producers mid-April. The support level for wool sold during the 1989 marketing season will be $1.77 per pound. The incentive level for the 1989 marketing season will be determined March 1990.

Compound Rids Chicken Houses Of Insulation Pest

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A compound registered to control cattle and swine parasites can be put into chicken feed to halt a mealworm that wreckes the insulation in modern poultry houses, a U.S. Department of Agriculture researcher has found.

"Just two parts per million of ivermectin killed nearly 100 percent of lesser mealworms and their adult form, the darkling beetle, in five-week tests involving 600 broiler chickens," said animal scientist Richard W. Miller of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

"So far, we have found no residues in the chickens' livers, so there shouldn't be any in the meat," he said. The liver acts as a blood filter that traps foreign chemicals entering the body.

He said the mealworm is not an internal parasite of chickens, but would consume the compound when it eats spilled chicken feed.

"Although mealworms have been implicated in the spread of some diseases or parasites among chickens," Miller said, "they cause damage primarily when, as larvae, they burrow into and destroy the insulation of chicken houses. The loss of insulation reduces the ability to control the temperature of the houses. This could result in less efficient growth of the birds."

Figures aren't available on dollar losses from damaged insulation, but "a recent nationwide survey of broiler producers puts the lesser mealworm at the top of the list of problems that poultry farmers want controlled," said Stephen Pretanik, director of science and technology at the National Broiler Council.

Miller said more research on ivermectin is needed before it can be registered with the Food and Drug Administration for use in chicken houses. It is currently approved for use as an injection to control stomach and intestinal roundworms in cattle, swine and horses. It also is used as a once-a-month treatment in dogs to prevent heartworm infections.

"While putting ivermectin into feed would be convenient for farmers," Miller said, "we plan to test other methods such as baits and sprays to find the most efficient way to dispense the compound."

The Model 8580 baler from Case IH is a highly automated, electronically controlled machine that offers peak productivity to the large-volume hay grower. Attached to the baler is the Model 8581 bale accumulator trailer that also is electronically controlled. The baler producer 46.5x50x108-inch bales weighing up to 2,000 pounds.

Case IH Baler Produces Larger Balers

RACINE, WISC. — The Case IH baler is designed specifically for large-capacity, high-quality hay production.

The centerline-design Model 8580 baler produces 46.5-inch by 50-inch bales that are up to 108 inches long and 2,000 pounds in weight. These bales are an ideal package size for handling and shipping to the best hay markets.

To provide high productivity as well as uniform bales, the Model 8580 features an extra-wide 97-inch-wide, 120-tine pickup designed to handle heavy windrows. Centering augers reduce the windrow size as the hay moves into the packer throat.

An exclusive double-packer finger system provides bales that are uniformly tight, square and constructed of equal-sized flakes. The first set of packer fingers fills a prepacker charge chamber. Standard, automatic sensors ensure that the prepacked flake is not moved to the bale chamber until the charge chamber is completely full. This feature prevents uneven bale formation due to windrow interruptions.

When sensors indicate the charge chamber is full, stuffer fingers move the preformed flake into the bale chamber.

To ensure consistent tying in all crop conditions, the Model 8580 uses six specially designed double knotters, each of which ties twice per bale. As each bale reaches the present length, the knotters tie off the completed bale and then tie the first knot of the next bale.

The Model 8580 also features an electronic controller/monitor that mounts in the tractor cab for fingertip control of all baler and accumulator functions. Among the functions monitored and controlled from inside the cab are: plunger load, bale chamber tension, knotter and needle performance, flakes-per-bale count, field bale count and total bale count.

Other standard features include flotation tires, hydraulic pickup lift, gauge wheels, lights for night operations, 24-ball twine container and automatic hydraulic density control.

To further enhance large-package productivity, the Model 8581 accumulator is designed for use with the Model 8580 baler. This three-bale-capacity trailer becomes an integral part of the Model 8580 baler and improves efficiency by allowing the operator to spot bales at field ends or in groups for faster loading and transport.

Options available include a centralized lubrication system for the Model 8580 and a bale weight scale for the Model 8581.

This highly concentrated soluble powder is a broad-spectrum antibiotic labeled for use in broilers and turkeys. It controls infectious synovitis, chronic repiratory disease, and fowl cholera as well as blue comb.

Pfizer Offers Concentrated Soluble Powder

NEW YORK, NY — A new highly concentrated soluble powder was recently approved for poultry by the Food and Drug Administration. Called Terramycin-343 Soluble Powder, it is most concentrated oxytetracycline soluble powder available. Manufactured and marketed by Pfizer Inc., the new powder will be available through animal health distributors.

Terramycin-343 is a broad-spectrum antiobitic labeled for use, at the highest approved dosages, in broilers and turkeys. In broilers, it controls infectious synovitis, chronic respiratory disease, and fowl cholera. For turkeys, Terramycin-343 can be used to control infectious synovitis and blue comb.

The new high potency formula has more active ingredient (343 gm/lb) and less carrier and filler than other oxytetracycline powders. This means producers handle less actual product for treatment at recommended dosage levels.

Extremely soluble, Terramycin-343 dissolves quickly and completely. "This allows producers the flexibility to start, stop or change the dosage with a simple change of water," explains Jeff Kula, DVM, Pfizer technical services.

Terramycin-343 is available in two package sizes—4.78 and 9.55 ounce — designed specifically for use in automated water proportioners.

According to Kula the new high concentration is:

- Effective in controlling major poultry diseases;
- Convenient, easy to mix and meter:

Terramycin-343 is also labeled for use in swine, beef cattle, nonlactating dairy cattle and sheep. For more information write: Pfizer Inc., U.S. Animal Health Operations, 235 East 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017.

These select dealers receive not only membership in the President's Club, but other honors as well.

Handsome wall plaques are presented to each dealership by Kenneth Myers, president and chief executive officer of Badger Northland. The President's Club also meets as a Dealer Product Council to review new and existing Badger products. Badger Northland relies on these dealers for input on such items as retail programs, sales trends, and new sales opportunities.

Badger Northland Inc. congratulates Show-Ease Badger Inc. for their achievements and inclusion in the 1988 President's Club.

Automatic Begins 15th Year In Sprayer Loan Program

PENDER, NE — In 1974, Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co. of Pender, Ne., in cooperation with university and government agencies, established a sprayer loan program. The purpose of this research program has been to evaluate Automatic Mist Sprayers' advantages and applications.

Field research has been an ongoing commitment for Automatic. "We need to keep pace with the needs of today's farmer/stockman. The research reports have helped us in modification and adaptation of our sprayers for particular spray requirements in many areas of the country," according to Jay Hesse, President of Automatic.

One result of the program has been the accumulation of many university and government test reports, letters and magazine articles endorsing the use of Automatic sprayers. Reports include cotton defoliation and insecticide application; insect and disease control in fruits and vegetables; brush, weed and insect control on pasture and range; livestock fly control; and pertinent information on spray droplet size, drift, and spray efficiency.

Automatic plans to continue the Sprayer Research Loan Program. As the needs of the growers change, Automatic will keep in step with these changes with ongoing research and evaluation of their sprayers.

For further details contact Automatic Equipment Mfg. Company, One Mill Road, Pender, Ne. 68047, phone 40[illegible]35-3051, or distributor, Ryder Supply Company, 539 Falling Spring Road, Box 219, Chambersburg, Pa. 17201, phone 717/263-9111.

Command Herbicide Builds Foundation For Successful Weed Control

PHILADELPHIA — Any carpenter will tell you that in order to build a sound structure you must first create a strong foundation. Without it, the entire structure is in jeopardy.

Soybean growers know that this same idea should be used in developing a weed control program. A dependable, broad-spectrum base herbicide must first be applied for the weed control program to be successful.

Since its introduction in 1986, Command® herbicide has been providing farmers with a strong foundation for controlling a wide variety of grasses and broadleaf weeds which commonly infest their soybean fields.

"Command gained a lot of respect when first introduced for its outstanding control of velvetleaf," says Command Product Manager Rick Landrum. "But now farmers are discovering that it gives them excellent grass control and better protection against other broafleaf weeds than most herbicides on the market. It is the ideal 'primary' herbicide for nearly every type of cropping system."

Applied on the surface (preemergence) or incorporated, Command provides season-long control on more than 40 grass and broadleaf weed species. At a rate of 1 1/2 to 2 pints per acre, Command eliminates many of the toughest weeds plaguing soybean farmers today, such as foxtails, seedling Johnsongrass, lambsquarters, Jimsonweed, and velvetleaf.

By stopping weeds in their early growth stages, Command eliminates early season competition. Getting a head start over competing weeds is vital to the development of the young soybean plant. And unlike some herbicide treatments, Command stays in the root zone, continuing to keep fields clean all season long, right through harvest.

In many cases, when Command is applied as the base herbicide, this first line of defense becomes the only protection you need for the entire season. In some areas, however, a tank-mix treatment may be required to solve special weed problems. For these special problems, the application flexibility of Command makes it very compatible for tank mixing at labeled rates with a wide variety of other registered herbicides, including Scepter®, Preview®, Canopy®, and Sencor®/Lexone®.

Command is set apart from other herbicides by its adaptability to perform under a diverse range of climatic conditions. Command requires only limited moisture for activation, but, it will stay in the soil even under unusually wet field conditions. This adaptability provides farmers with weed control which is both dependable and predictable, even when Mother Nature isn't.

"Unlike some other soybean herbicides, Command has no effect on a plant's root system," notes Landrum. "Occasionally, corn may come up showing Command symptomology, but it will quickly grow out of this, leaving no permanent effect.

"In fact, Command may soon be registered for use on corn," continues Landrum, "so as long as producers follow label instructions, they don't have to worry about carryover problems."

Command is labeled for surface application on soybeans only in certain states. These states include Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee and Texas. Please read and follow label instructions and consult your local dealer before application and note any restrictions.

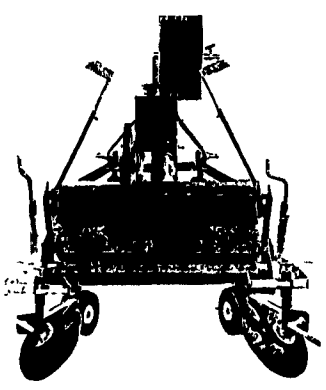
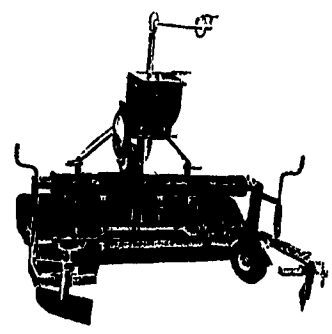
BIG YIELDER MODEL 2500
RAISED BED PLASTIC
MULCH LAYER



Not all mulch layers look and work the same, it's how the mulch is layed that really counts.

Featuring
- Independent, spring loaded cover arms with 6 way disk hillers. No wrench needed for adjustment. Convenient cranks for more or less coverage.
- Independent presswheels that "float" with angle adjustment, no wrench needed.
- Fast reloading! Full open back of machine (no bars to step over). Machine will carry two 48" x 4000' rolls of plastic mulch.
- Plastic mulch goes under "floating" roller (in back of machine) thus giving a tightly stretched mulch and pressed bed.
- Beds are 4" to 6" high (depending on adjustment). Machine has adjustable row markers.
- Insecticide applicator (optional) by "GANDY", is driven off roll of film plastic. Thus, application rates are uniform regardless of speed mulch layer is driven.
- Drip irrigation attachment (optional) is adjustable side to side and up and down, will handle large or small drip line spools.

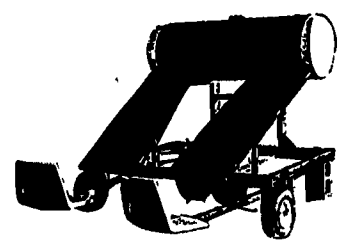
ECONOMICAL MODEL 560
FLAT BED PLASTIC
MULCH LAYER



When it comes to mulch laying, take a close up look at the Model 560. Mulch laying is prior to planting your baby plants, and is more than just rolling out your plastic mulch. Uniform beds and tightly layed plastic mulch is a must for a higher bottom line.

Featuring
- Very uniform beds, the Model 560 eliminates pot holes in seed bed. Heavy ¼" steel pan will press bed. Has furrow openers on bottom.
- Independent spring loaded cover arms with convenient cranks for more or less coverage. For maximum control of coverage, this machine has scrapers instead of disk covers.
- Fast reloading! Full open back of machine (no bars to step over).
- Plastic mulch goes under "floating" roller for maximum tightness. Independent press wheels also "float" with angle adjustment, no wrench needed.
- With minor adjustment, machine will lay 4' or 5' plastic. (Adaptor optional.) Carries two 4000' rolls of plastic mulch.
- Insecticide applicator (optional) by "GANDY" is driven off roll of film plastic. Thus, application rates are uniform regardless of speed mulch layer is driven.

WATER WHEEL
PLANT SETTER



Featuring
Planter will plant through plastic mulch with constant depth control for the plants. Plants 1 or 2 rows on one bed. Simple operation, will water as you plant, has water flow control. Also, water off/on controlled by planters or tractor operator. Machine has four tray carrying racks, two are "self feeding" right to the planter seats.

Comes with category 2, 3-point hook up. Economically priced.

Full line of drip irrigation, plastic mulches, and supplies in stock.
We ship UPS same day orders are received.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED
SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.
And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Jehle To Speak At FARMER Fundraiser

CAMP HILL (Cumberland) — Philip Jehle, director of the Washington office for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, will be the guest speaker at the ninth annual statewide fundraiser for FARMER on April 20 at the Hershey Country Club in Hershey.

FARMER, Farmers Allied for Responsible More Effecitve Representation, is the political action committee of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. Proceeds from the fundraiser will be used to support legislative candidates of all major political parties in state elections. FARMER is a voluntary, bi-artisan organization.

As special assistant to the Governor for federal-state relations, Jehle is Governor Casey's representative with top federal officials, members of Congress, and other states' Washington offices. He also advises the Governor on federal issues of concern to the Commonwealth.

Beginning his Washington, D.C. career as an attorney practicing civil and criminal law, Jehle has served as counsel to Senator Hubert Humphrey's subcommitte on retailing, distribution and fair trade practices, as chief counsel of the U.S. Senate Business Committee, as Washington representative and associate general counsel of the National Association of Retail Druggists, and as vice president of Smith Kline Beckman's Washington office. He was appointed to his present position on April 1, 1987.

The FARMER fundraiser will start with a social hour at 6:00 p.m. followed by a banquet at 7:00 p.m.

1989 BARN PAINTING
Latest Developments

1. PREPARATION - High volume water blasting at 1,000 lb. pressure re-surfaces barn siding into a smooth (like new) appearance!
   a. Performed by professionals quickly at reasonable cost.
   b. By yourself with your own or rented equipment.
   c. Or other more conventional methods.
2. APPLICATION - To insure better adherence to this super prepared surface, use the best fine bristle brush in four directions to evenly distribute the recommended mil thickness of seal coat coverage.
3. SPECIALIZATION - Every barn is different but generally it's best to use a high quality mildew resistant product, specially formulated to meet the requirements of this partially weathered wood that was and will be weather stressed.

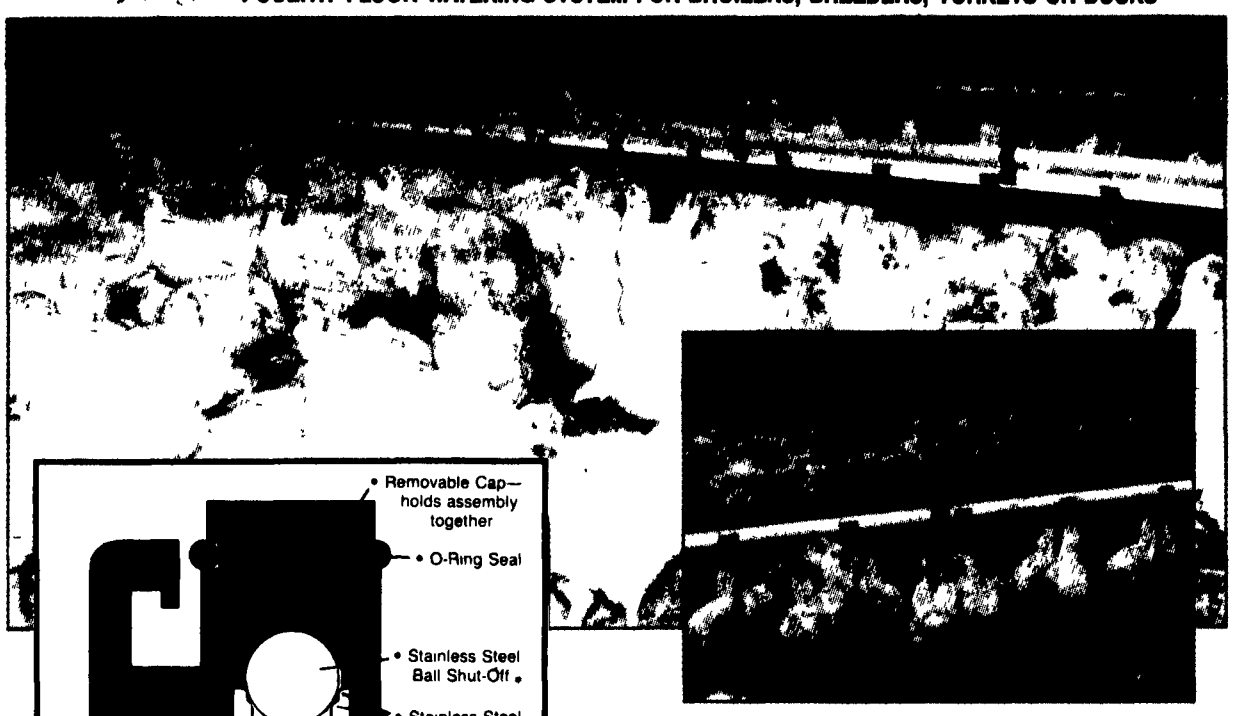
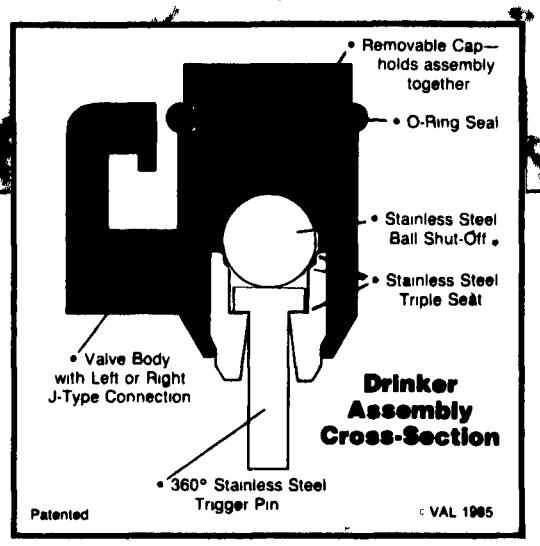
POULTRY FLOOR WATERING SYSTEM FOR BROILERS, BREEDERS, TURKEYS OR DUCKS





• Removable Cap—holds assembly together
• O-Ring Seal
• Stainless Steel Ball Shut-Off
• Stainless Steel Triple Seal
• Valve Body with Left or Right J-Type Connection
• 360° Stainless Steel Trigger Pin
Drinker Assembly Cross-Section
Patented
© VAL 1985

NIPPLE DRINKER FEATURES

- Day-old birds can activate the valve from any side, any angle. (Mini drinkers required only if birds have been debeaked day-old.)
- Triple stainless steel valve seat made to precision specifications. No rubber seats to replace. Drinker operates on low ¼ - lb. pressure. Minimizes wet litter problems.
- Each nipple can serve 15 broilers, 10 heavy breeders or 8 turkeys.
- Drinker mounts on water line saddle by means of a "J" flange. Easy assembly and easy replacement.
- Drinker is easy to take apart & re-assemble All parts are accessible and removable by simply pulling the cap out of the body.
- New Mini-Trough Drinker available for day old debeaked birds. Attaches to Nipple Floor Watering System, and remains through grow-out period. There is no need to remove the mini-trough between flocks.

SYSTEM FEATURES

- Water is always accessible, and always clean. The system is completely enclosed. Nipples are self cleaning, and they do not collect dirt. Since the nipple "washes" every time it is triggered, it does not get clogged by feed or feather dust.
- Drier litter is maintained because of the reliable triple seal and low water pressure. There is less spillage and no squirting with this low pressure (¼ lb. or less) watering system.
- The pressure regulator (30VVR332) can provide and maintain a uniform ¼ lb pressure for the entire length of a 500 ft ¾ inch plastic water pipe.
- Inspection and maintenance are easy. If a nipple needs replacement, simply turn to disengage the "J" flange and pull the unit out of the "saddle" or pipe connector. The new nipple may be inserted and locked in place by turning to engage the "J" flange. There are no threaded parts, clips or screws.
- Other maintenance tasks are as easy. Leveling may be done by means of adjustment straps on the winch cables. There are no cups, troughs or founts to clean
- Simple installation for floor systems. Plastic water pipe is clamped to 1" conduit sections, coupled together for continuous support. Conduit is suspended from winch system at 12' (max.) intervals. The ¾ " plastic water pipe clamps to conduit ine every 24".
